Truck-Car Collision Kills Columbus Man

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies continue work today trying to piece together actions of John H. Morris, 23, 2266 Eadkin Rd., Columbus, who was killed instantly 6 p.m. Monday when he drove his car into the path of a loaded tractor-trailer rig on Route 22.

"We believe he might have been ill," said Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who was the first lawman to arrive at the accident 11 miles west of Circleville.

Court House To Close On Saturday

Pickaway County Elected Officials Monday voted to close their offices in the Court House on Saturday mornings and to stay open until 8 p.m. Friday effective the first Friday in May.

The courthouse offices will be open 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 8 a.m. to noon Wednesday and 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday when the new schedule goes into effect.

The elected officials have been considering closing on Saturday mornings for about two years. The decision to close on Saturday and to stay open longer on Friday to compensate for it was unanimous.

In other business conducted at the meeting held at Tink's Monday, officers were elected. They are: Sara Dresbach, clerk of courts, president; Wayne Hines, commissioner, vice president; Hazel Yeatts, recorder, secretary-treasurer.

Elected officials present at the meeting were Commissioners Hines, Dick T. Tootle, L. Robert Liston, Clerk of Courts Dresbach, Recorder Yeatts, Auditor Marvin Rhoades, Probate Judge Guy Cline, Common Pleas Judge William Ammer, Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, Treasurer Robert Wood and Coroner Dr. Ray Carroll. The only elected official not present was Prosecutor Richard Gerhardt.

Pickaway County is now one of 66 counties in the state closing its court house on Saturday. All surrounding counties, Franklin, Fairfield, Hocking, Ross, Fayette and Madison are now closed.

The accident report, compiled by Sheriff Radcliff and Deputies Don Thompson and J. Phillip Brown, shows that Morris was driving east on Route 22 when he swerved off the right side of the road 382 feet in front of a sign post.

The car apparently stayed off the right side for 382 feet, hit the post, and returned to the road for 33 feet. Marks on the road indicate the car traveled 55 feet across the east bound lane and cut diagonally in front of a loaded tractor-trailer rig, which was traveling west.

The two vehicles collided in the westbound lane. The car slid down the left side of the trailer, became stuck momentarily under the trailer, and then was thrown 130 feet into the right ditch.

The truck was forced off the right side of the road for 266 feet, came back to the paved surface and crashed into the left ditch.

Larry R. Riffle, 30, Route 5, driver of the rig, was treated at Berger Hospital for forehead lacerations.

Both the car, owned by the Ohio Exterminating Co., Columbus, and the tractor, owned by K. and L. Trucking, Inc., 430 W. High St., Circleville, were total losses.

Court Rules Highway Funds Freeze Illegal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that President Nixon acted illegally in impounding federal highway construction funds appropriated by Congress.

The ruling came on Monday as the appeals court upheld a decision by U.S. District Court Judge William Becker of Kansas City that the President could not withhold $89 million in road funds from the Missouri Highway Commission.

In its 2-1 majority opinion, the Court of Appeals said funds appropriated by Congress "are not to be withheld from obligation for purposes totally unrelated to the highway program."

President Nixon has said he intends to curb inflation by holding federal spending at $250 billion. He has impounded some $15 billion appropriated by Congress for federal programs such as housing, rural conservation and highways.

A government attorney who had represented former Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, told the court in January the President is not obligated by law to spend money appropriated by Congress and that if such spending is to be mandatory, Congress must pass a law to that effect.

Judge Donald P. Lay said in the appeals court's majority opinion, however, that nothing in the 1956 Federal-Aid Highway Act "explicitly or impliedly allows the Secretary of Transportation to withhold approval of construction projects for reasons remote and unrelated to the act."

Concurring in the decision was Judge Gerald W. Heaney of Duluth, Minn. Lay, of Omaha, Neb., and Heaney were appointed to the court by former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The dissenter was Judge Roy L. Stephenson of Des Moines, Iowa, who was named to the appeals panel by President Nixon.

In his dissenting opinion, Stephenson said his interpretation of the highway act was that Congress "made a deliberate choice ... to grant to the executive discretion in determining the extent to which apportioned funds will be made available for obligation."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and 19 other Democratic Senators had filed a friend of the court brief supporting the highway commission's contention that the money should be released.

Ervin had called the practice of impoundment "contemptuous of the role of Congress in our tripartite system."

Missouri took the matter of impoundment to the federal courts last year after the administration held up money for the completion of 252 miles of interstate highways. Five other states — Florida, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Idaho — joined in the case as friends of the court in support of Missouri.

Meat Boycott Taking Effect

By KRIS LILJEHOLM
Associated Press Writer

Consumers appear to be biting into the week-long meat boycott with determination, throwing off meat sales by as much as 80 per cent in scores of supermarkets from coast to coast and slicing some prices 29 cents a pound.

"It's like my meat had some disease. Nobody'll even touch it," complained a meat manager in the New York City area, where a check of supermarkets showed the boycott to be about 80 per cent effective on the first shopping day Monday.

A shopping-cart check in Boise, Idaho, found 22 out of 50 women had bypassed the meat counter. In Albuquerque, N.M., only about a third of the shoppers in one store were taking home meat. A survey of six large Oklahoma City supermarkets turned up no customers at the meat counter in three stores, only one woman at another and meat buying "about normal" in the other two.

While many retailers were saying it was too soon to tell how successful the boycott would be, since most housewives do their weekly shopping in midweek and many had stocked up on meat last week, red meat prices were on the way down in a few stores by as much as 29 cents a pound.

Effects of the boycott showed up everywhere along the line, from the stockyards to the packing houses.

Cattle were $1 to $2 higher in Kansas City markets, while hogs were down $3. At the National Stockyards in Illinois, cattle were mostly $1 higher, with hogs $3 to $4 lower.

Siouxland Beef Processors closed their plants temporarily in Fargo, N.D., Omaha, Neb., and Sioux City, Iowa. They said they wanted to determine what effect the boycott would have.

Standard Beef Inc. of Detroit, which normally processes 150-200 cattle a day, was handling only 100-125. Meat packers across Michigan reported orders down 25 per cent.

Some 500 butchers were furloughed by Cincinnati packing houses. Thomas Ranshaw, president of the local butcher's union, said he expected 500 more to be laid off by week's end as farmers and ranchers withhold stock and processors buy cautiously.

One dinner table where meat was conspicuously present, Monday evening was at the Western White House, where visiting South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and President Nixon dined on roast prime tenderloin of beef.

The President last Thursday announced a ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices, allowing retailers to sell the products at their top rate for March but no higher.

Pickaway County Restaurateurs 'Boycotting The Meat Boycott'

Monday was not meatless in Circleville restaurants.

The boycott of meat, by purchase or consumption is encouraged by many groups around the country that see it as a means of forcing meat prices down. But it is not getting much public support in this area.

This study of the public attitude was completed by a poll of area restaurants to see how much support the boycott had among the luncheon trade Monday.

Of the ten establishments polled,

Committee Named To Study Rates

Mayor Frank Barnhill announced today he has appointed a citizen's committee to study the sewerage system rate structure and alternate means of financing construction of new disposal plant.

The committee includes representatives of industry, business and private citizens.

Named to the committee are William Fischer, an accountant with General Electric; Jack Heeter, owner of the Washing Well laundry; Steve Smalley, an employee of the Second National Bank; Harold Clifton, former councilman and manager of Clifton Auto Parts; and his wife, Pauline Clifton.

The mayor said he took the action because of the flood of complaints received by himself, council members and the public utilities department because of the rate increase.

settle the environmental question.

The federal government then asked the Supreme Court for a reversal.

The high court Monday dashed the government's hopes with seven words and no comment: "Petitions for writs of certiorari are denied."

Alaska Gov. William A. Egan said after the decision that President Nixon should order construction of the pipeline in a declaration of national emergency.

"If criteria ever existed to back a presidential declaration—with our energy crisis and tremendous problems with a balance of payments—it does now," Egan said in Juneau.

In Bellevue, Wash., Edward L. Patton, president of Alyeska, said the court decision makes it necessary for Congress to amend the 1920 law to allow construction of the pipeline.

polled stressed that all food products are costing more, not just the meat. To meet these increased costs, the businesses have been forced in many instances to make slight increases in meat prices. In cases reported, none of the increases were enough to cover the owners' total additional cost.

At the Ashville Coffee Shop, Taylor Lutz noted that non-meat dinners would not appeal to his customers. "Oh my, these farmers would kill me," Lutz said when asked if he had made any no-meat meal menus in preparation for the boycott.

Tinks, Forrests, Pucketts and Boyers restaurants all noted typical days as far as their luncheon trade went.

Apparently, Pickaway County is boycotting the meat boycott.

Calley Asks New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. has asked the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, the military's highest court, to grant a new trial or reverse his murder conviction stemming from the My Lai massacre.

Calley's attorneys, in a petition filed Monday, listed among reasons for the appeal a judgment made by the Army Court of Military Review that Calley maliciously ordered civilians shot during the March 16, 1968, sweep of My Lai hamlet.

The appeal said it was up to the jury at Calley's original Ft. Benning, Ga., court-martial to decide whether malice existed.

Calley, an Officers Candidate School graduate, was sentenced in 1971 to life imprisonment for the premeditated murder "of not less than 22 Vietnamese" and assault with intent to murder a Vietnamese child. Calley, now 29, was 24 when he led his troops through My Lai.

On Aug. 20, 1971, the commander of the 3rd Army reduced the sentence to 20 years at hard labor, a penalty upheld by the military review court last Feb. 16.

Liberal Coalition

Ousted In Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The coalition of liberal Democrats and radical Human Rights party members that passed a law cutting the penalty for marijuana possession to a $5 fine has been ousted from control of this college town's city government.

Voters elected 46-year-old conservative Republican James Stephenson as mayor, replacing Democrat Robert Harris, a University of Michigan law professor who did not seek re-election.

Fate Of Oil Pipeline Still In Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its seven-word refusal to review the Alaska pipeline case, the U.S. Supreme Court has postponed a legal showdown over the project for at least several months.

The next move is up to Congress, which is considering legislation to remove the right-of-way restrictions imposed by a 1920 law.

The Supreme Court's action Monday means that the separate issue of the proposed pipeline's environmental impacts, which might have been considered simultaneously if the court had ordered it, now must wait its turn in court until Congress has completed action on the right-of-way aspect.

Spokesmen for the government, construction industry and environmental groups agreed the decision would cause further delays in the pipeline case, which already has dragged on in the courts for three years.

In 1968, a huge oil field was discovered on Alaska's frozen Arctic shores. A group of oil companies asked the Interior Department in 1969 for permission to build an 800-mile pipeline across the federal government's vast land holdings in Alaska.

The companies, now represented by the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., want to transport the oil to a port on Alaska's southern coast, and from there by tanker ships to the U.S. West Coast.

Three environment groups, the Environmental Defense Fund, Friends of the Earth, and the Wilderness Society, claimed Interior had not submitted an environmental-impact assessment of the project, as required by law.

U.S. District Court Judge George A. Hart held up pipeline construction until, more than two years later, Interior produced what it said was a final environmental statement. Hart lifted the injunction.

The environment groups took their case to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here, on two main grounds: that the impact statement gave insufficient consideration to an all-land pipeline route through Canada; and that the 1920 Mineral Leasing Act allowed too narrow a right-of-way for construction of the huge, modern pipeline.

Last Feb. 9, the appeals court blocked the pipeline because of the right-of-way restrictions. Anticipating lengthy congressional consideration of amendments to the right-of-way law, the court said also it was too early to

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices nosedived for the third straight session today, and brokers attributed the drop to investors' continuing concern over inflation as well as a technical reaction to last week's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 10.46 to 925.72 at noon. Declines held almost a 3-to-1 lead over advances in fairly light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,400 common stocks had fallen .53 to 58.36 at noon.

Prices also drifted lower on the American Stock Exchange, and the price-change index had fallen .06 to 24.26 at noon.

Martin Marietta, off 1/4 to 17 1/2 on heavy institutional dealing, topped the active issues on the Big Board.

Urge Pop Tax For War Bonus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A bonus for Ohio's Vietnam War veterans would be financed at least in part with a two-cent soft drink tax if the chairman of the Ohio House Ways and Means Committee has his way.

Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, introduced at a skeleton session Monday a bill that would place an excise tax on the wholesale distributor of soft drinks. The tax, which could be passed along to consumers, would be two cents on containers of 16 ounces or less.

It would be 2 1/2 cents on containers from 16 to 32 ounces and five cents for those of more than 32 ounces. Revenue would be earmarked for the retirement of $285-300 million in bonds which would finance the bonus.

A constitutional amendment to pay bonuses of up to $500 is pending in a Senate-House conference committee as a result of disagreement over how the bonds would be retired. Senate Republicans rejected the House version which called for a statewide property tax.

They insisted the bonds could be retired from the general fund. Other discussion has included a proposal to earmark funds from a state lottery if that proposal is approved by voters in the May primary.

The Senate received five new bills and the House eleven as both chambers held Monday skeleton sessions to open this week's legislative deliberations. Both has floor sessions on tap today.

Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, and five co-sponsors in the Senate offered a measure that would set up a dual quota system in state-supported professional graduate schools.

It requires that 90 per cent of first-year classes must be Ohio residents and 10 per cent students "of African descent." Schools failing to attain those percentages would stand to lose state assistance.

65 New Cases Filed In Court

In March, 64 new cases were filed in the docket of the Common Pleas Court. During the same month, the court terminated 59 cases.

The new cases included six suits stemming from personal injuries; one for workmen's compensation, 18 criminal matters, 33 suits for divorce or alimony and six other cases.

Disposed of were eight personal injury cases; 19 criminal matters, four by jury trial, and 18 domestic relations cases. The remaining 14 cases finished were unclassified.

Cases still open on the docket as of April 1 totalled 256.

County Recorder Lists Report

A total of 390 recordings were processed in the office of County Recorder Hazel Yeatts during March, 1973.

The 390 recordings processed consisted of: 161 deeds; 145 real estate mortgages involving monies of $4,298,518.41; and 84 miscellaneous recordings.

Real estate mortgages cancelled totaled 104. Money involved amounted to $1,752,833.08.

Included in the workload for March was the filing and processing of 229 financing statements.

Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, introduced five bills in the House. One calls for motor vehicle inspection at least every two years. Others authorize use of physicians' assistants to perform certain selected medical services and permit county commissioners to convert county homes into senior citizen centers.

Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, and others called for reciprocal agreements between cities in the collection of municipal income taxes.

In other developments, Chairman Michael Del Bane of the House State Government committee called for testimony tonight on a code of ethics bill to require all elected officials to disclose sources of income and the annual amount of their income.

A House subcommittee headed by Sweeney completed work on the measure last Thursday. In its present form, it is similar to a code of ethics bill handed the legislature by Gov. John Gilligan, who called it his top legislative priority.

Ethics legislation hasn't fared well at recent sessions of the General Assembly—due in large part to objections the lawmakers have to disclosing their sources and amounts of income. Others have maintained that at least to start, the legislation should be confined to state lawmakers to determine how well it works.

The bill was amended to include judges after they were left out of the original proposal. Besides elected Elections scheduled for today at Grafton, Ill., were put off until May 8 because polling places were accessible only by boat.

An estimated 850,000 acres of land has been flooded in Missouri and Illinois alone and 27,000 more acres are endangered, according to the Army Corps of Engineers. The corps estimated that damage has already reached some $72 million.

Hoffman Trial Hit By Surprise

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Attorneys for Howard Thomas Hoffman III, who is on trial for first-degree murder here, have had to reassess their defense presentation in the event that Hoffman's 23-year-old wife, Carol, will not be available as a witness.

Mrs. Hoffman was reported in serious condition at Cleveland Clinic Hospital after reportedly taking 50 tranquilizer pills last weekend.

Common Pleas Judge George Buchwalter canceled Monday's trial session at the request of defense attorneys.

Retirement Planning Set For Rotary

LEON F. MONTAGUE Gives Retirement Advice

Worried about the day when you will be turned out to pasture? About those golden-age days (or sooner) when you face retirement?

Thursday's meeting of Circleville Rotary will be devoted to planning for retirement featuring a film recording of "Turned Out to Grass" as given by Leon F. Montague before a large intercity meeting in New York City.

All club members are urged to attend this special showing and to bring guests.

"Turned Out to Grass" is an address designed to stimulate the thinking of people, whether they be in their 40s, 50, or 60s, as to the importance of discovering and developing their special interests and talents prior to retirement so that when retirement day comes, they will be prepared to retire "To Something"—not "From Something."

Montague, a past officer of Rotary International, is an old Kansas cowhand who began his education in a one-room country school. This led to a Master of Science degree from Kansas State University, graduate work at Harvard and membership in Phi Kappa Phi National Honorary Scholastic Society.

He has been a cattle rancher, an active enthusiast in grasslands and field botanists and is now associated with O.M. Scott and Sons, the century-old lawn products company. This association came after his retirement at age 65 from Rotary International.

This talk has been aired on radio and television and before more than 100,000 business and professional leaders in the major cities of the nation to assist these people with retirement planning.

4 Young Men Find 9-Months Bed Stay Highly Profitable

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four healthy young men are being paid $100 a week for lying flat on their backs in bed for nine months.

They are volunteers in a research project on how to maintain healthy bone growth balance in prolonged space flight, as in a two-year mission to Mars.

Loss of calcium from the skeletal bones is a major health threat from the prolonged weightlessness that space voyagers would encounter, says Dr. Stephen Hulley, project director at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital here.

Prolonged bed rest helps produce the effects of weightlessness and results in a lag in the body's normal production of new bone tissue.

The loss of essential calcium deposits in the bones produces a condition called osteoporosis. Bones become brittle and weakened. Simple fractures are a serious hazard.

The current four bed volunteers are the latest group in a total of 40 young men studied in the project financed over the last five years by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Hulley is testing on them a diet supplement of phosphate and calcium tablets.

Two of the men receive approximately double the normal intake of both mineral elements. The two others — the control group — get none.

Hulley said a previous test group showed no loss of calcium through the first three months of bed rest. He said the protection against calcium depletion appeared to break down in the fourth month.

The experiment now is being repeated to extend over a nine month period, ending in September. Two men will take diet supplement pills the first half, then get none. The other two will take the pills during the last half of the test period only.

Two of the volunteers are jobless San Francisco men. Two others are serving terms at Safford federal prison.

Concerts on the tour were presented in Bedford, Independence, Avon, Grafton, Stow, Amherst and Caldwell. Leist will be a soloist in the upcoming home concert, featured on the Euphonium.

A total of 285 students at Wilmington College have been named to the Dean's List for the fall term, including Linda Diltz, Circleville. The Dean's List gives recognition to those who have achieved academic excellence.

Denise A. Morrison, daughter of Mrs. Kervyn Morrison, Williamsport, left March 21 by plane from Port Columbus for Karlsruhe, Germany.

She will spend the spring quarter studying four courses in the German language, completing the language requirement for the College of Arts and Science at Ohio University.

Denise was one of 20 students selected from over 200 applying for the trip to Germany. She received a University scholarship, which will apply to the European trip.

While there, she will spend one week in an old castle in the Black Forest which is the Youth Hostel, and spend the remainder of the time as a guest of a German family.

Tri-County Auto Theft Ring Broken

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A year-long investigation of an auto theft operation in three counties has led to the indictment of a retired Columbus police detective and his son.

Indictments against the two and 10 others were handed down by the Franklin County Grand Jury and a search for the men was begun Monday night by sheriff's deputies. Several have already been apprehended.

Edward Kleinhenz, 63, and his 23-year-old son, Richard, were among those indicted. Kleinhenz is a retired Columbus police officer who spent some time working on the auto theft squad.

Each was charged with one count of having in his possession parts unlawfully removed from a motor vehicle on May 26, 1972 and with conspiring to buy, receive or possess stolen parts from May, 1972, to July 18, 1972.

Also named in the indictment were: Carl A. "Bud" Gentile, 31, Samuel McConnell, 28, Charles Taylor, 24, John Fetch, 27, Clarence Hines, 24, and Wilbert Mayle Jr., 23, all of Columbus, and Joseph Bennett, 28, of Ashley, Jack Holobaugh, 28, of Johnstown, and William Cruse, 27, of Galena.

Sheriff's deputies by this morning had already taken Edward Kleinhenz, Taylor, Bennett, Fetch, Hines and Jones into custody.

The investigation leading to the indictments was conducted by the Columbus police, Franklin County sheriff's deputies, Upper Arlington police, and Delaware County sheriff's deputies.

The operation in Franklin, Delaware and Morrow counties learned of persons who had purchased new cars, called the dealer pretending to be owners who were locked out, then sent a person to the dealer to pick up a duplicate key, according to the police.

Those indicted include two auto parts dealers and one garage operator.

Job Prospects For Students Brighter

NEW YORK (AP) — Job prospects for students who graduate from college this spring are the best in four years, but the future may continue to present problems, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education said today.

"Although the short-term crisis is phasing out, the longrun situation still deserves careful study," the commission said in releasing a new report on college graduates and the job market.

The report said the job market for college graduates in both 1972 and 1973 made it clear that the poor employment prospects facing college graduates in 1970 and 1971 were in large part associated with the economic recession of those years.

But the impact of economic recovery could be blunted during the remainder of the decade by a surplus of college-educated persons, if adjustments are not made, the commission said.

"The realistic problem for the 1970s may be the necessity for the absorption of some college-educated persons into jobs which have not been traditionally filled by persons with a college education," the commission said.

Assessing individual occupations in the 1970s, the commission said prospects for teachers and college faculty members were dim, while employment prospects were bright for health care personnel and managers generally. It also said employment opportunities for computer operators, office machine operators and recreation workers would go up steadily, and that prospects for engineers would go up and down.

The commission said that while job prospects for women would be reduced because of fewer teaching opportunities than in the past, they would be enhanced by more opportunities in health care.

"College-educated black women will be among the most favored prospective employees in all fields, as employers seek to make adjustments to achieve greater representation of minorities on their payrolls," the commission added.

Official government predictions of major surpluses of college-educated persons, as well as the recent experience of college graduates searching for jobs have highlighted recent concern about the labor market prospects for college-educated persons.

Clark Kerr, chairman of the Carnegie Commission, said that between now and 1980 some 75 per cent of the college-educated persons entering the labor market would be filling positions vacated by other college-educated persons or would assume positions in expanding occupations that already have high demands for college-educated personnel.

Of the remaining 25 per cent, about half would find positions that have been or can be educationally upgraded to make use of a college education, he said. However, the other half would need to accept positions that do not lend themselves to such upgrading, Kerr said.

Congress Set To Outwait Nixon Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says congressional leaders are developing a strategy to assure that Congress has time to act on all bills President Nixon vetoes.

The move might prevent a replay of the situation which developed last year when Nixon vetoed several bills after Congress had adjourned the session.

In that instance, Mansfield noted, Congress was powerless to act because only the President can summon it back into session after final adjournment.

Mansfield told reporters Congress may finish its work this fall, perhaps by Oct. 1, but remain in session for another 10 days until the deadline has passed for Nixon to act on legislation.

That way, if the President vetoed a bill, Congress still would be in session for an attempt to muster the two-thirds vote needed to override a veto and write the measure into law.

Mansfield commented as Congress prepared for its first test in the spending battle with Nixon, an effort Tuesday to override the President's veto of a $2.6-billion vocational rehabilitation bill. The Senate votes first and, if the bill gets the needed two-thirds, it will go to the House.

That measure, in somewhat more expensive form, was one of the 12 bills Nixon vetoed after Congress adjourned in 1972. Most of the others also are proceeding through the legislative mill again.

Most insects have compound eyes, three pairs of legs and two pairs of wings.

Republican Senate Offices Said Bugged

Weicker said also he believes White

Form Of Waste

When the subjects of inflation, trade and competitive productivity are in the news might be a good time to consider absenteeism from work. It has a direct tie-in on an employer's competitive position, although the relationship is not always taken into consideration.

On a typical weekday in the United States, 3.8 million workers are absent from their jobs. The national absentee rate is 4.7 per cent, or nearly one out of 20 job assignments unfilled each day. That amounts to a lot of lost time and expense, not to mention disruptions in work schedules and other inefficiencies.

A percentage of these missing workers is unavoidably absent. But another percentage simply doesn't care or regards it as a right to take an unscheduled day off now and then, frequently with pay. Just as such a high rate of absenteeism is costly to employers, it is similarly costly to consumers.

All the costs of any product ultimately are borne by them, until the day arrives when they decide they no longer can afford to buy it.

Chances are those who abuse work privileges will not consider the consequences. But those who work with a goof-off ought to be aware of them, for they stand to lose as well.

Combating Cancer

Year by year, the battle against cancer becomes less a surrender to the inevitable and more of an advance against the unknown. The life of one of three cancer patients is being saved today, whereas only one in five survived 30 years ago.

Before long medical scientists hope to improve the ratio to one of two.

But that will take more knowledge. More research. Better radiology. More skillful chemotherapy. Above all, the kind of knowledge that helps conquer fear.

That is why members of the American Cancer Society will soon go from door to door. They will be seeking contributions, of course, for progress requires funds. Just as important will be the information they distribute on how to detect the first warning signs of cancer and what to do about them.

Theirs is the first line of attack against cancer.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have been married for a year and a half and have not been able to conceive.

We have not yet consulted a specialist in this field.

We would like to know a little more about the reasons for infertility in a healthy couple.

Mrs. T. O., Tex.

Dear Mrs. O.:

Some people would think that you do not have a right to feel discouraged after only one and a half years of marriage. I do believe, however, that you are now justified in consulting a specialist in fertility even though you both are in excellent health.

It is estimated that almost 20 per cent of marriage couples fail to achieve parenthood.

There is a vast amount of newly acquired information about the physical and the psychological causes of infertility. The result is that many women in this situation can conceive, with proper direction.

In the female, disturbances in the Fallopian tubes due to infection, or some anatomical kinking, may prevent the ovum from finding its way into the womb for fertilization by the male sperm.

Local conditions and the anatomical position of the cervix (vaginal opening to the womb) can affect the possibility of conception.

A much more complicated problem is a disturbance of ovulation that interferes with production of the female egg.

The male, too, must be thoroughly examined to rule out physical problems responsible for sperm inadequacy.

The amount and the hardness of the male sperm must be studied.

Sometimes, vaginal secretions may have a high or a low degree of acidity which may be destructive to a borderline health sperm.

Specialists in infertility now have at their command a great many diagnostic tests by which they can establish the underlying reason for infertility. In most instances, these problems can be corrected with diligence and patience by the doctor and the couple.

The psychological factors are examined as carefully as are the physical ones.

Your physician can recommend a specialist in infertility.

Is narcolepsy related to epilepsy?
Mrs. L. W., Mass.

Dear Mrs. W.:

They are not related. In narcolepsy there are no convulsive seizures as there are in epilepsy. Sudden recurrent attacks of uncontrollable desire to sleep occur in narcolepsy. The cause is really unknown, though a vast amount of information is rapidly being accumulated about this unusual condition.

Modern treatment with new stimulating drugs has been used with success in some cases.

Children with unusual fears that seem to mount or multiply should be given psychological tests to uncover the reason for a child's concern. Many parents who would not hesitate about a physical condition, delay these psychometric tests.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With Internal Revenue Service agents showing more interest than housewives in prices at the meat counter, the effort by consumers to drive down prices is bound to have the appearance of success.

The main reason that prices are likely to fall is that the law of supply and demand really does work. When demand is high and supplies relatively low, prices rise. These are precisely the conditions that led to those $4 steaks.

Per capita yearly beef consumption of about 118 pounds today is more than double what it was as recently as 1951. This alone isn't enough to drive up prices if production keeps pace, and until recently it had been. But demand now exceeds supply.

Veal, on the other hand, demonstrates how shrinking supplies also exert upward pressure on prices. In 1964, Americans ate about 10 pounds of veal per person per year, compared with 2.5 now. But production also has fallen.

While there is little question that a boycott can force prices down, there is doubt about the long-range impact. Lower prices most likely will discourage some producers from supplying the market.

If that happens, as Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz warns it could, price pressures later this year could be equally strong.

The dedication of the boycotters will also be a factor. To live without meat in a society that believes meat is a basic requirement for healthy families is apt to produce in the boycotter the feeling that she is sacrificing her youngsters in pursuit of a social cause.

These questions also must be considered: Are boycotters like the fat woman who resolves while standing on the scales never to eat another chocolate? Like the inebriate who resolves on New Year's morning never to touch another drop?

While these questions cannot be answered for a few weeks or months, they are simple in comparison to the complex and imponderable question of what government policy will be.

There was little uncertainty about policy during Phase 2. The letter and spirit of the law were understood, and many prices became relatively stable.

Phase 3 is another matter. Supposedly there is a club in the closet that might come down upon the head of any seller who dared endanger the economy through prices increases. But so far it looks more like a toothpick.

Moreover, great doubts are being expressed that the club ever can be of much use. Businessmen and others note that there are simply too many millions of sellers and products for government to watch all of them.

Business and economic literature is thus rife with discussions about another price freeze that would relieve government of responsibility for individual decisions.

In a democracy, the rule of law is a noble ideal — except when that law is the law of supply and demand, and especially when it is out of balance.

Urge Rejection Of Price Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon administration officials appealed to Congress today not to enact the legislation for a general price freeze and other mandatory controls that have been gaining strength among the lawmakers.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, chairman of the Cost of Living Council; John T. Dunlop, the council director; and Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, appeared before the House Banking Committee.

Twenty of the committee's 40 members are cosponsoring tight control legislation with provisions for a freeze.

Historic Decision

By JEFFREY HART

Brown versus the Board of Education was the great symbolic case of the Warren era of the Supreme Court. The recent decision in the school financing case may turn out, similarly, to be the landmark decision of the Nixon-Burger Court.

The first thing you notice about the 5-4 ruling is its party-line character. Five Republicans made up the majority: Nixon's four appointees, plus Potter Stewart, who was appointed by Eisenhower.

Of the four Democrats voting in the minority, three have been down-the-line ideological liberals over the years: Douglas, Marshall, and Brennan. The fourth, Byron White, though certainly a liberal, does not approach their tital predictability.

Noticing this ideological lineup, you would be correct in inferring that fundamental matters were at stake. At issue here was the question of whether our system, in the main, is one based upon rights, or whether it is, again in the main, one based on the deliberate sense of the people.

The liberal tendency, at least within the tenure of the oldest Justices now serving, has been to expand the number of rights available to the individual. Confronted with a social problem, the liberal posits a right. Since the rights actually specified in the text of the Constitution are relatively few, and also quite specific, the newer rights have had to be inferred from the more generalized language of provisions like the First and Fourteenth Amendments.

In the school-financing issue, the decisions of the lower courts in California and Texas were based upon the Fourteenth Amendment, and in effect created a new individual right: the right of the individual pupil to have as much spent on his education as is spent on that of every other pupil in the state.

Now a state legislature, as in Ohio, might decide that such equalization of expenditure is a good idea. Or it might not. After all, the matter is complex. It is not clear that the larger amount of money spent per pupil in a wealthier district necessarily enhances his educational opportunity. Suppose the extra money spent goes for tennis courts or fancy dramatic facilities. Is the Constitution to be read as saying that you can't put squash courts into the richer school until you have put them into the poorer one? And even if all the money spent in the richer district did go for education, it remains true that the best recent studies deny the correlation between expenditure and educational achievement.

What the majority of the Court held in this decision was that in so complicated and debatable a matter a new individual right should not be read into the generalized language of the Fourteenth Amendment.

Two large theories of government were therefore in collision. The legislative approach appeals to the experience and judgment of the people as reflected in their representatives. The solution to a given problem arises out of the "deliberate sense" of the people. It is my view that the form of government established by the Constitution is almost entirely based upon such "deliberate sense."

Liberals, however—and I do not think I am being unfair—have in their heads a set of axioms revolving around things like freedom, equality, and progress. Their notion of governing is to see to it that those axioms get embodied in the form of rights, and they are willing to impose them (busing, school prayer, pornography) even in the teeth of the deliberate sense of the people.

In its school-financing decision, by pulling back from the rights approach, and by explicitly recommending the issue to the state legislatures, the Court took a historic step back toward deliberate-sense government; back, in my view, toward government according to the Constitution.

POW Repeats Statements Against War

NEW YORK (AP) — Navy Capt. Walter Eugene Wilber says the anti-war statements he made while a prisoner of war in North Vietnam were the result of his conscience.

"I was not tortured," Wilber said in an interview on the CBS "60 Minutes" program Sunday night.

Asked why he changed his mind about the war after his capture, he said:

"I happen to be a Christian. I happen to be a professional naval officer. I happen to love my wife and children very much. I happen to love my country very much ...

"I found out that when I had time to think about myself, where I was, what we were doing, I found out that my conscience bothered me."

Wilber has rejoined his wife and three children at their remote Columbia Cross Roads home in the rolling hills of Pennsylvania's Bradford County.

Livestock Firm Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has charged the Point Pleasant (W.Va.) Livestock Co. Inc. with violating federal trust account, accounting and record-keeping regulations.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to speak out for what I consider the majority of women. We in no way go along with Women's Liberation. What a small minority started the majority will suffer for. We are proud to be women. It's dear and precious to us. Being submissive to our husbands in no way takes away our rights as a female or an American citizen. We're happy to stay home and be wives and mothers.

We know you men are laughing a lot these days and you deserve to, but while you are laughing please keep in mind that we women still want to be women and would like to still be treated like women.

Maybe I'm a traitor to my own tribe, I don't know, but I'm sorry to the tips of my toes, not just for us, but for you men because you will get cheated out of so much.

These women may think they are liberated but now they are more enslaved than ever. In getting what they call rights they have destroyed the female image. We women had it over you men for a long time and we knew it, but the good part was you knew it and liked it.

Prisoner Of War Recalls Hanoi March

By Capt.
Jeremiah A. Denton Jr., USN
As told to Kathryn Johnson
Associated Press Writer

I'd like to take you to the Hanoi March. A night of brutal spectacle, with the population having at us as we went through the streets and a night in which many men were tortured for confessions at the Hilton and the Zoo.

The North Vietnamese frustration and indignation against what our country was doing and what the POWs were doing, and not doing, reached a peak in the summer of 1966.

It was a year of terror tactics against the entire mass of POWs rather than against groups or individuals as later.

They were getting not only biographies but confessions from many men in their anger and I believe in an effort to intimidate American actions in the war by proffering us as hostages.

They began to threaten war crime trials. This pitch of indignation reached its highest form of expression during the Hanoi March.

Late in the afternoon of July 6, we heard many doors opening in the camp and a number of us were taken to several large rooms, blindfolded and handcuffed in pairs. Although many guards were watching us, we were able to communicate names by whispering to one another and by tapping on the adjacent man's knee or thigh.

My partner was Bob Peel, who is a very brave young man. It was the first time I was that close to an American, of course, and somehow I sensed the North Vietnamese were about to make some sort of spectacular display that would redound to their disadvantage.

They gave us a lecture in which they were vague about what we were going to do that evening but did let us know they were going to take a trip and strongly warned against communicating. One of the officers screamed at us that if we communicated on the trip, we'd be killed.

Just before dark, they loaded us up into trucks with perhaps 16 or more POWs per truck.

We were told we would be paraded through the streets so the people could demonstrate their anger to us. My over-all impression of their aim at this time is that they planned a spectacle which would humiliate us.

We were unloaded downtown and lined up in columns on a main street, about 10 yards between pairs. Right in front of me was one of several trucks loaded with news correspondents, big still cameras and big movie cameras.

Before we started moving and as the cameras began to roll, I tried my best to look as unrepentant as I could.

I unbuttoned to look carefree. I made an obscene gesture toward the crowd. At that point one of the guards told Bob and me, "You will have to bow your heads."

Suddenly I comprehended the whole idea. So I shouted an order up ahead: "Nobody bows his head. Pass the word."

And I turned and shouted the same thing to the pair behind me.

I believe that I'm not the only one who gave that order but I gave it. I'm pretty sure the order was passed throughout.

BancOhio Okays New Service

The Board of Directors of BancOhio Corporation has approved a new Automatic Dividend Reinvestment Service for the corporation's more than 13,000 shareholders, effective with the next cash dividend payment.

The Second National Bank of Circleville is an affiliate of BancOhio, the state's largest multi-bank holding company and a number of shareholders are residents of Pickaway County.

Philip F. Searle, president and chief executive officer of BancOhio, said that the multi-bank holding company has retained First National City Bank of New York to administer the program, which contains no minimum or maximum requirements for shareholder participation.

BancOhio shareholders who wish to take advantage of the reinvestment option simply sign an agreement authorizing First National City Bank to use their cash dividends in the purchase of additional shares of the corporation's common stock. Shares or fractional shares acquired in this manner immediately begin earning dividends, Searle explained.

BancOhio will assume the administrative expenses incurred in reinvestment purchases. Shareholders also are permitted to make additional cash payments which will be combined with cash dividends and invested concurrently, Mr. Searle said. The service agreement can be discontinued at the wish of the participating shareholder.

"Our proposed new service is particularly convenient for shareholders who, regardless of the size of their holdings, have no immediate need for the cash dividends," the BancOhio executive noted.

He said the plan is simple inasmuch as First National City Bank maintains all record-keeping, with BancOhio shareholders given the opportunity to increase share ownership at no administrative cost to them.

RISCH DRUG STORE

1274 N. Court St. 474-6011

The march began. The people were screaming. I think they were screaming something like, "kowitz, kowitz."

We did not bow our heads.

We were protected by a cordon of guards wearing red scarves with arms linked together to hold back the crowd.

The army's part in this was to simply bend us through the street at bayonet point and afford the proper expression of subjugation and repentance.

As the march progressed, we began to tire and sweat profusely, having had no recent, comparable exercise. The crowd was standing about 15 deep on each side of the street and the heat from all the bodies was tremendous.

The big object of the parade was to bow our heads as we went through the streets.

As far as I could see no heads bowed, but if any did I think it was from sheer fatigue and not intimidation.

The crowd became thicker and more intense. One woman — I'd judge her age at about 50 — threw a big rock at me from behind. We were frequently hit by guards and our faces, lips, jaws and foreheads were bleeding.

The next time a woman threw a rock, she successfully connected and knocked me off my feet.

They kept pulling us by the ears. I knew they were making asses of themselves.

The most irritating part of the march was a man about eight inches shorter than I, who would break through the cordon, sneak up and give me a left hook in the groin.

I have a partial hernia today from that man.

I practiced throwing a one-two punch at him, counting one, two, three, coordinating my right with Bob's left (handcuffed to it) so I could deliver a left jab followed by a right.

As he followed along in the crowd, I got the escort officer's attention. I pointed to the man and demonstrated my intention and ability to deliver the one-two punch if he came out again.

This was sort of a moment of truth for the officer. He visibly paled, then made his decision.

The officer ran over to the man who was still trailing me, grabbed him by the shirt, shook him hard several times, shouted at him and I think he slapped him in the face. The man didn't give us any more trouble after that.

The crowd overflowed into the street more and more until we had a path no wider than a pair of streetcar tracks. People were able to pummel us. The cameras had long ago disappeared. We made a left turn to the soccer stadium. The path was a 45-degree turn where the crowd was solidly massed.

I could see one or two pairs of prisoners fighting their way through, sometimes crawling, often kicking and punching.

At this point in that parade I did feel fear. I thought we might be mashed.

It was like fighting for 15 yards in a football game with no rules. We were fighting the enraged people, and the thing was now out of hand. Bob and I finally got to the stadium.

Once inside, with no crowd left, the army men seemed even more relieved than we were. They jabbered and smiled among themselves while we seized the chance to talk among ourselves.

On the way back in the truck, I was talking to Bobby Risner and I missed a danger signal, a cough. A guard knocked me not unconscious but momentarily senseless.

Back in my cell at the Zoo, I thought the eventful evening was over but suddenly an officer came to my door and told me in a kindly way that I'd better drink some water. I did and a guard took me out to a tree, blindfolded me and gagged me with two rags that had been used to bind my sandals. The rags were filthy and full of grit.

He then cuffed my hands behind me and around the tree. I thought I was one of three persons bound to trees.

After the guard walked away, I coughed my initials out and I heard the response from the man on my left whom I thought was in the middle of the three.

He coughed back the initials "J.C." and for a minute there I got some ironical humor remembering there were two thieves on two sides of Jesus Christ.

But in a few minutes I remembered that the initials were for Jerry Coffee. Many months later I learned that at least four or five men had been bound to trees.

I was there until dawn began to purple the sky.

Then I was taken to the interrogation room and asked what I thought of the march. I told them in no uncertain terms that the whole thing would expose them as uncivilized throwbacks to a barbaric age and they would arouse world opinion.

Elderly Learn Free

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (AP) — Prince Edward Island residents of 60 years or older can take any course this year for free. The University of Prince Edward Island says elder citizens also will not have to provide educational or other prerequisites. It's one of several UPEI projects for the Centennial Year.

Strong Baby Works Out With Barbell

NORTH SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Frederick Bennett II can do five pushups and lift a 15-pound barbell with ease — which is pretty good for someone 15 months old.

Freddie is the youngest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bennett of North Syracuse and is the only boy.

"I promised myself if I ever had a son, I would start him on an exercise program right away," said Bennett.

The program began the day the baby came home from the hospital. Mrs. Bennett exercised Freddie every morning for five or six minutes. Her husband would give the infant a 10-minute workout after returning home from his job at a foundry.

Before long, Freddie was exercising himself by pushing against the sides of his crib. He has had the run of the house since learning to walk at 8 months.

Now the program, which Freddie performs with a wide grin, consists of pushups, hanging from a bar and lifting the 15-pound barbell.

The baby has tried a 25-pound barbell — equal to his weight. "But I don't let him strain himself," his father said. "I can tell when we start whether he's having a hard time, and we stop right away."

Mrs. Bennett said some friends have expressed concern that the baby's health might be damaged by the exertion "but our pediatrician isn't concerned we're doing Freddie any harm. Actually, he's rather amazed to have such a strong, healthy young patient."

Fetal Life System Said Developed

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — The fetal life-support system that is discarded after birth contains a "living dressing" for adults, reports a California researcher.

Dr. John D. Trelford of the University of California at Davis reported on Sunday about experiments with the amnion, a membranous sac that surrounds the fetus.

He told an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers that the amniotic membrane could be used to treat birth defects. He said it could be formed into a tunnel beneath the skin to drain fluid from the skull of hydrocephalic babies or could be used to correct urinary tract deformities.

Miniskirt Returns In Fashion Showing

PARIS (AP)—While the ready-to-wear fashion showings continue at full blast, one moral is already clear: never throw anything out; build more closets.

The mini is back. So is the midi, although you mustn't call it that. Pants are on the decline for the moment but are still available both wide and skinny. And there are several kinds of shorts.

Pierre Cardin, whose new principle is to show a year's worth of couture and ready to wear in April, is truer to himself than most. The foundation of his day clothes' line is, not surprisingly, a black-ribbed wool body stocking that ends up in a turtleneck. On top, a bulky tweed sleeveless dress with large square armholes, dirndl skirt and a vinyl tie belt. The length is minier than the average.

His new suit, also in tweed, has a straight skirt. The jacket dips down in back and is gathered in front. One has large "belt loops" at the neck to hold the muffler in place.

Pants, when present, are extra-wide and pleated. An alternative for the flamboyant is the pants suit of many colors. One leg is red, the other black. The same is true for the jacket sleeves, while the torso stands out in purple.

Chloe, whose 180-dress collection took three hours to show, is as retrospective as ever for next fall. Of what it is hard to say.

Designer Karl Lagerfeld likes a severe look, which verges on the matronly at times. His favorite colors are black, brown, bottle green and maroon with splashes of salmon and teal blue on occasion.

His most interesting idea, which will bring joy and money to lingerie manufacturers, is resurrection of the slip. It's printed to match the dress or shirt, which means you can show off your underwear without offending the eye.

Lagerfeld's knitted group is also pretty, if not highly original. Straight or pleated skirts come with twin sweaters, one three-quarter length.

For evening, try a long pleated skirt with a sleeveless turtleneck, wool muffler and long black gloves.

Workshop Planned

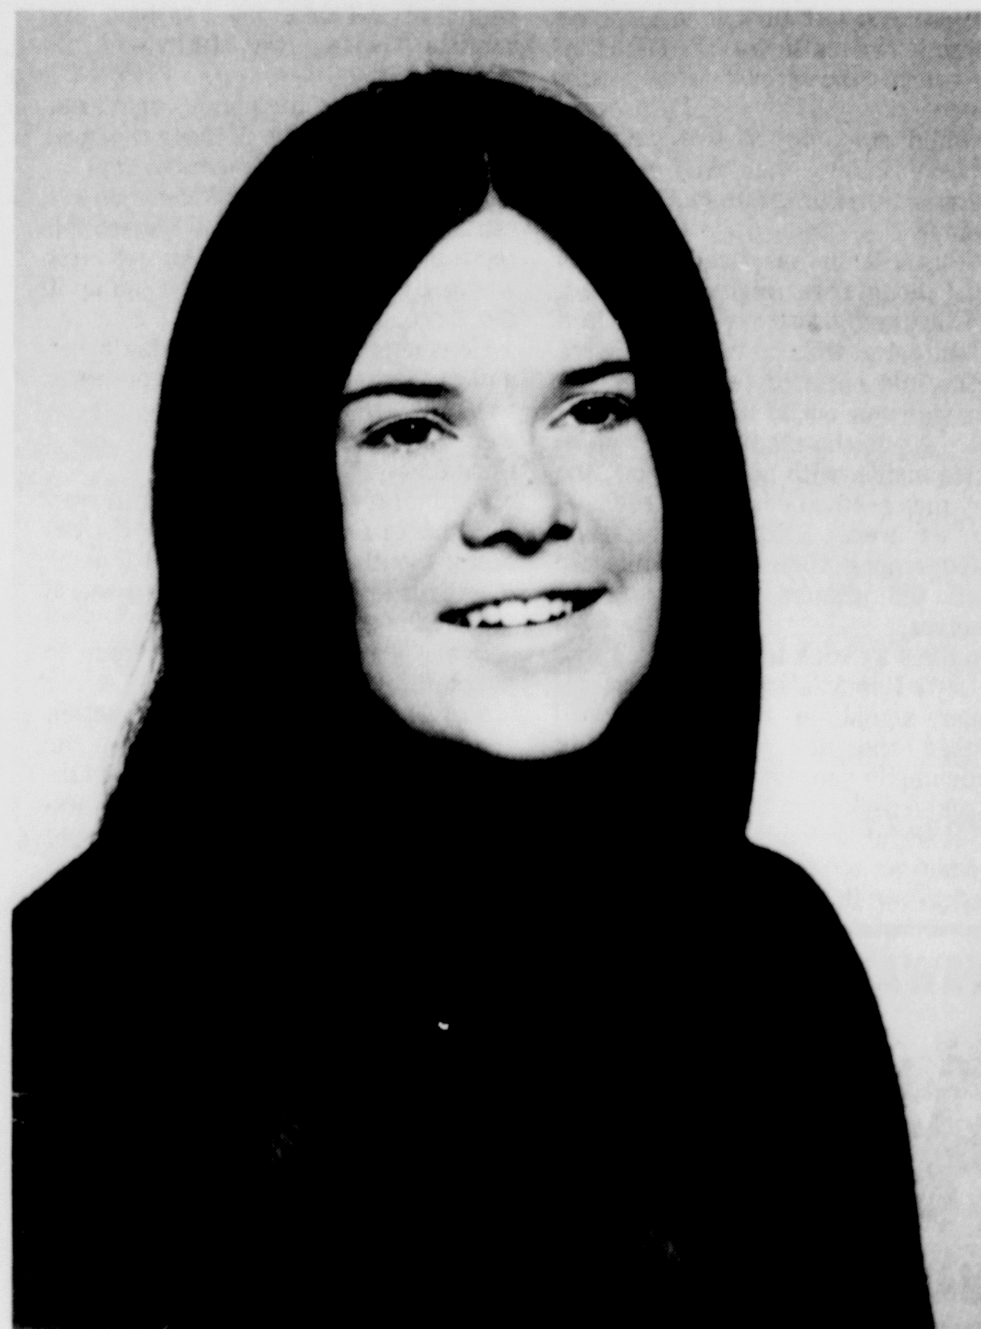

By Garden Club

Mrs. Willison Leist will conduct a workshop for the April 10th meeting of Pickaway County Garden Club beginning 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 134 E. Mound St.

SCIOTO PTO

The regular Scioto Parent Teacher Organization meeting was held March 12 in the cafeteria while those present enjoyed refreshments. After reports concerned with the work parents had done at the school, the discussion concerned projects for the remainder of the year.

It was decided to have a spring festival at the school on April 14, 1973 beginning at 7:00 and ending at 10 p.m. There will be fun for all; games, food, and prizes. General chairman for the event is Ganai Ramsey.

The May meeting of the PTO will be a carry-in supper followed by the business meeting and election of officers.

Jim Perry, President presided over the meeting.

Red China Uses Mental Health Group Sessions

PEKING, China (AP) — The Chinese have their own way of trying to nip some emotional or mental health problems in the bud, says an expert on Chinese medicine.

"Many tensions can be relaxed through 'life' meetings held by the street or other neighborhood units in rural communes or cities, to thrash out personal or emotional problems in a friendly way," says Dr. Ma Hai-teh, an American expatriate who has spent 40 years in China.

Born George Hatem in Buffalo, N.Y., he received his M.D. degree in the United States, specializing in dermatology before coming to China in 1933.

"Various hurts and animosities can be dealt with early," Ma said in an interview.

"These 'life' meetings can involve personal affairs, discussions of family problems, or relationships with neighbors. You could voluntarily bring up some personal problems. But if you didn't introduce something that was really bothering you, others might because they had noticed your behavior or attitudes.

"It is all discussed in a congenial way with no moralizing or stigma," Ma said.

Returnee Believes Over 100 Airmen Slain By Civilians

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survivor of North Vietnamese captivity says he believes more than 100 U.S. airmen were killed by angry militiamen and civilians after their planes were shot down.

"Well over 100 men were seen on the ground alive but never reached the prison system," Air Force Col. James H. Kasler said in an interview.

"We know that in the bombed areas an awful lot of men were killed by the militia. The North Vietnamese civilians were pretty irate."

Kasler, 46, of Indianapolis, Ind., credited regular North Vietnamese troops with rescuing some U.S. troops from lynching.

His estimate of the number of American fliers slain in this way was the first made publicly by any returned POW. He said his information came from downed air crewmen he met during the 6½ years he was held in the North.

In addition, Kasler said that 12 to 15 POWs who were taken into interrogation "never reappeared."

"I don't think they had any intention of killing us," Kasler said of the North Vietnamese interrogators. "But they were so crude in their torture. And they were like mad dogs, they lost their heads."

Kasler said he believes three seriously ill men died of willful neglect.

He identified them as Air Force Maj. Earl G. Cobiel, Navy Cmdr. Kenneth R. Cameron, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. James J. Connell. Their names have appeared on a list of 55 American military men reported by the Hanoi government as having died in captivity.

Kasler told of what he called a "big escape purge" staged by the North Vietnamese in May 1969 after two U.S. fliers broke out of a compound and were recaptured.

"Between 40 and 45 officers got the treatment (torture beatings)," Kasler said. "The North Vietnamese tried to find out whether there was an escape committee. There was an escape committee, but so few people knew anything about it that the Vietnamese never were able to learn who was on it."

Whether there might be higher mental or emotional stresses for Chinese who happened to be more individualistic was not explored.

When a group of 11 Americans visited the People's Republic of China recently, one late request made after arrival was to visit a mental hospital. It was one among numerous late suggestions from the visitors, but was not included in the itinerary, perhaps because all arrangements had been made for other appointments.

Mental hospitals in Peking and Shanghai were visited a year and a half ago by Dr. Victor Sidel, chief of the department of social medicine at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York, and his wife, Ruth, a social work supervisor with the comprehensive child care project at Albert Einstein.

The Sidel said patients are organized into divisions and are urged to take care of one another, with patients longest there helping the newcomers, and with emphasis placed on self-reliance "to struggle against their disease," and to try to understand themselves.

Drugs such as chlorpromazine, a calming agent, are used for the more severely ill, and a psychiatrist meets regularly with patients individually or in groups to discuss problems.

After discharge, the patient is supposed to receive help and emotional support from his neighbors. He may take medication at home.

The thoughts of Chairman Mao run through the whole mental health system, the Sidel said, with the purpose being to "arm the mind to fight disease," to cultivate the ability to recognize a fact, and distinguish between what is objective and what is subjective.

Man Gives Up Steady Job To Return To Circus Life

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Nothing makes Ernie Schwerdtfeger happier than "to see a little kid laughing."

So the 47-year-old Schwerdtfeger is giving up his job as a display manager of a large Topeka, Kan. department store to return to the callopie and the nomadic, hurly-burly life of the circus.

Ernie Schwerdtfeger is a clown. "Being a clown is something you just can't get away from," says Schwerdtfeger, who began a career in show business at the age of 3. It gets in your blood.

Over the years, the veteran entertainer has performed during the circus season, as a song-and-dance man, as a clown and as an escape artist. He has also filled in as a catcher for aerialist acts.

In the off-seasons he has done display work for department stores across the nation and done sculpturing in papier mache and fiberglass.

Schwerdtfeger won't be going back to the circus alone. He's taking his wife, Mary Belle, four stepchildren, and 5-month-old son, who Schwerdtfeger says he wants to become an aerialist—"he has the muscles for it."

Jehovah's Witnesses Target Of Iron Curtain Crackdown

MOSCOW (AP) — A court in Lithuania has sentenced four Jehovah's Witnesses to five years in labor camps and five others to lesser terms.

The Witnesses were accused of building an underground organization, printing and disseminating anti-Soviet literature and urging disobedience of Soviet laws. Sovietskaya Litva, the newspaper of the Lithuanian Communist party, said the sect's literature and theological directives came from the headquarters of the Witnesses in Brooklyn, N. Y., headed by Nathan Horner Knorr. It called him a "reactionary anti-Communist."

The paper said the Witnesses in the Soviet Union are headed by Wiljius Araijs, described as an elderly man. It reported a court in the Baltic port city of Klaipeda sentenced him and two associates to five years in "strict regime" labor camps and another person got five years in a less severe labor camp.

Two more Witnesses got two-year sentences, another got 2½ years, and two others were put on probation for three years.

The paper said Araijs organized secret groups of Witnesses in Lithuania, Latvia and around Leningrad and Kaliningrad.

Sovietskaya Litva said the Witnesses had a tightly organized, "multi-stage" leadership structure throughout the Soviet Union that was highly efficient in arranging secret meetings for Bible readings, smuggling pamphlets into the country and reproducing and distributing them.

The paper said a Witness in the town of Vaynod, Alexandra Gechaite, "set up a workshop" to reproduce the sect's magazine, "The Watchtower," and other Jehovahist tracts.

"Those in Brooklyn employ any means to win supporters in our country and incite in them an anti-Soviet spirit," Sovietskaya Litva said.

The group's leaders urge their followers "to shun civic activities, not to observe Soviet laws, and they incite absurd inventions about the 'satanic' character of Soviet power," the paper continued.

Boycott Of Meat Brings 800 Layoffs Around Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Union leaders around the state said Monday that the meat boycott has cost meatcutters about 800 jobs.

Thomas Ranshaw, president of Local 7, Butchers Union, said that Cincinnati packing houses have furloughed 500 butchers because of the boycott.

Ranshaw said the union has 2,200 members and he expects another 500 layoffs by the end of the week. Farmers are withholding stock from sale and meat processors are afraid to get stuck with cut meat, Ranshaw said.

In the Cleveland area about 200 meatcutters were out of work Monday, according to Frank A. Cimino, president of Meat Cutters District Union 427.

Cimino added that 350 parttime workers have been laid off by supermarkets and other stores and he estimates meat sales are off 10 to 15 per cent in northeast Ohio.

In central Ohio union leaders estimate about 100 meatcutters are out of work.

"We're getting calls from our members," said Ralph Roof, president of District 346 Food and Allied Workers in Columbus. "People are being laid off. I don't think the meat boycott is the right thing to do. It's not going to help anybody."

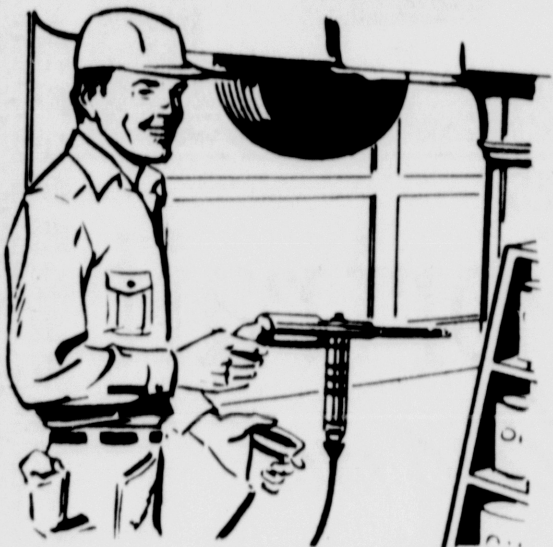

A meat store owner in a suburb of Cleveland closed his shop for the week. Carmen P. Miozzi said he decided to take off when he saw sales start to drop last Wednesday.

Miozzi said he put a sign in the store window saying: "We support the meat boycott, closed April 2nd to 7th."

The boycott began Sunday and most large food chains around the state will not say how much their meat sales have been affected by the action.

The balsam fir, which grows up to 70 feet in height, is abundant in eastern Canada.

Couple Found Dead Of Carbon Monoxide

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Coroner Dr. Garret J. Boone said Monday night that a couple found dead in a camper on a city street died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The victims were Mrs. Hazel Mize, 42, and Thomas V. French, 33.

Ohio Voting Reforms Advocated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio General Assembly may find itself being bypassed in a Democratic Party move to take an election reform amendment directly to the people next November.

Sheriff's March Statistics Show Accident Increase

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies investigated 107 accidents during the month of March, raising 1973's total to 244.

None of the wrecks were fatalities, although 52 people were injured in 36 accidents.

Failure to have a car under control resulted in 34 of the accidents, excessive speed was blamed for 14 accidents, and assured clear distance and failing to yield the right of way for 10 wrecks each.

Statistics show that the time period between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturdays was the most hazardous to drivers.

The township of Circleville recorded 20 accidents, there were 14 wrecks in Pickaway Twp., 12 wrecks in Darby Twp. and 11 accidents in Wayne Twp.

The office logged 77 offense reports during March, 31 for breaking and entering, 15 for petit larceny, 8 each for grand larceny and malicious destruction of property and 15 miscellaneous offenses.

Deputies also compiled 377 aid and incident reports, 884 for the year. Majority of the total were checking suspicious cars and persons and miscellaneous calls.

—Allowing registration of voters by deputy registrars with countywide jurisdiction.

—Requiring boards of election to publish voter directories and make them available to the public.

—Holding Ohio's non-presidential year primaries on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in September, and holding them on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in June in presidential election years.

—Reducing the candidates' filing deadline from 90 days to 60 days before an election.

—Eliminating a requirement that candidates' petitions be notarized.

—Eliminating a requirement for absentee ballots to be notarized.

—Permitting voter registration at boards of election offices up to 10 days before an election.

2 Bills In Assembly Will Help Teachers

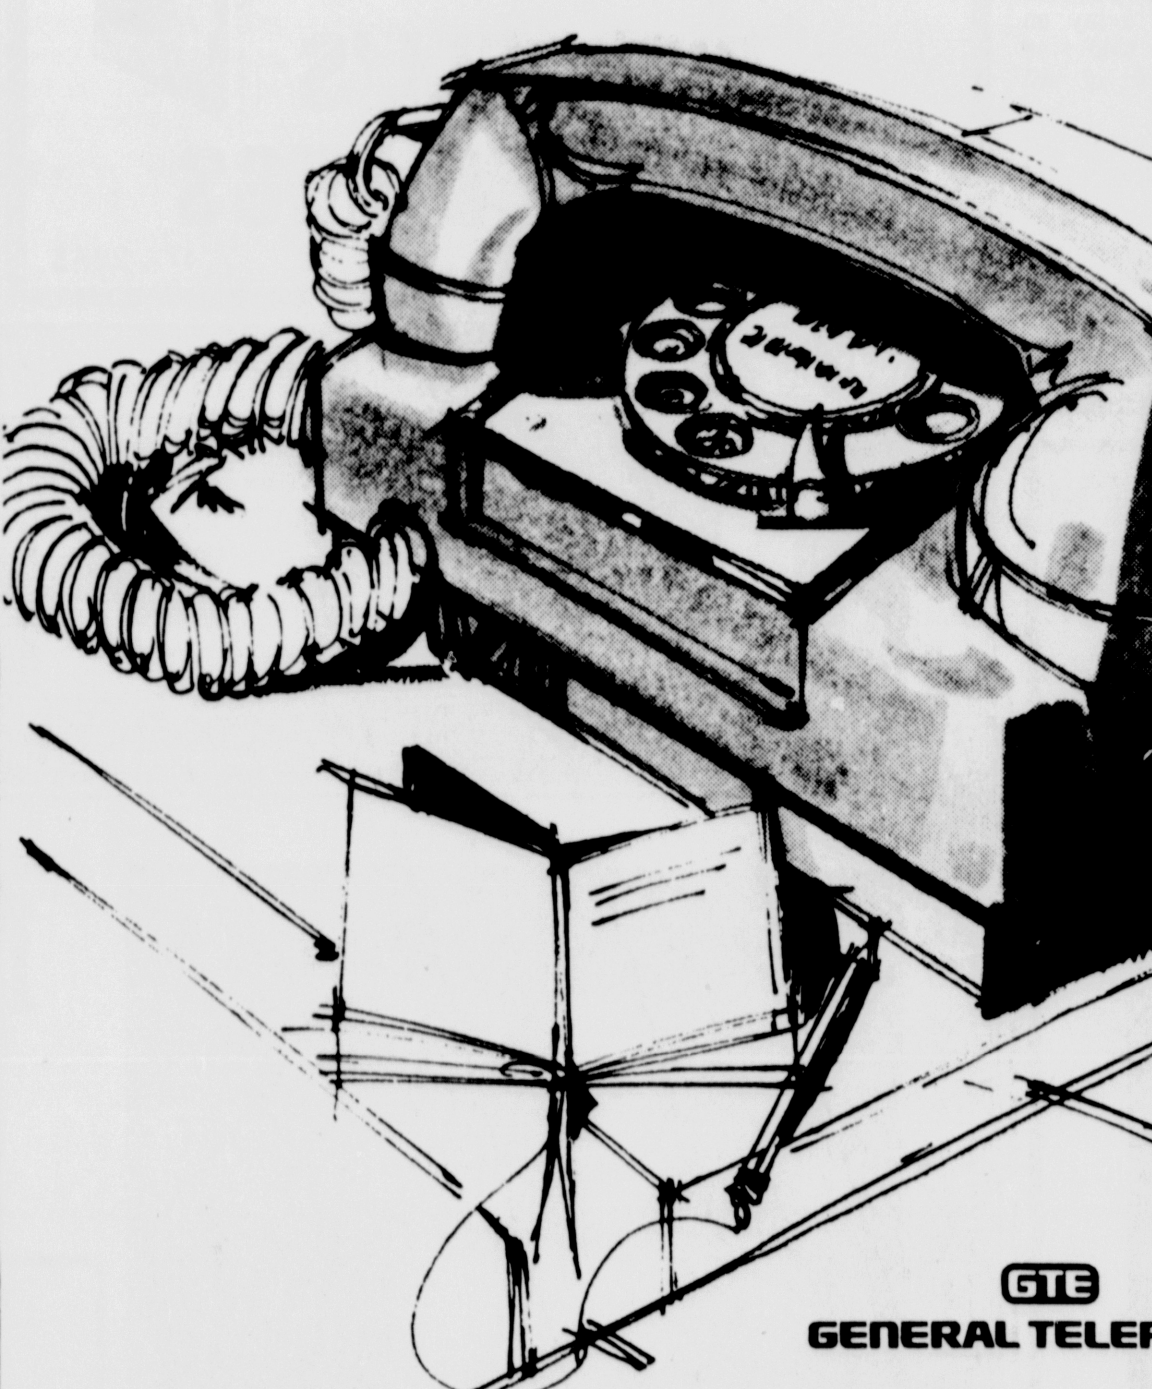

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Lawrence Mayher, staff director of the Ohio Commission on Public School Personnel Policies believes two bills in the Ohio Legislature will upgrade the education of teachers.

Mayher said Monday that one bill would require prospective teachers to complete a five-year bachelor-master degree program before being granted a provisional teaching certificate.

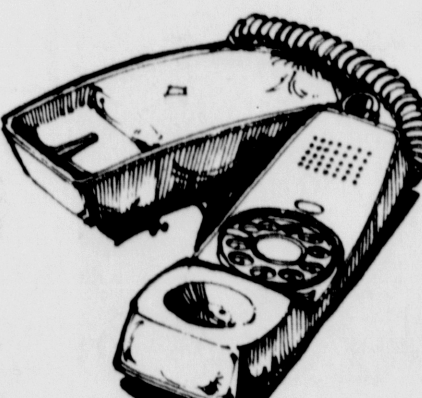

The second would create a State Board for Professional Personnel in Public Schools to take the responsibility for training standards and certification. That responsibility now rests with the Ohio Board of Education.

wide-awake styles

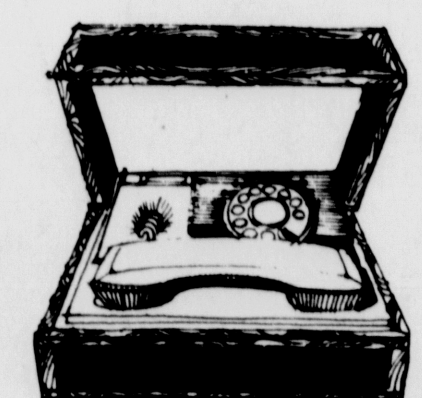

... even for those late, late calls. Like the STARLITE® telephone ... the dainty high-style phone with a dial that glows. It's ideal for her vanity or night table for after-dark dialing, or just as a friendly soft night light (with adjustable brightness). Bedroom or breakfast nook, kitchen or rumpus room ... every home should have a second phone, a step- and work-saver for your greater pleasure, convenience and security. Wherever your need, whatever your taste or decor, there's a fascinating selection of styles, colors and special-purpose telephones in General Telephone's Extension Extravaganza.

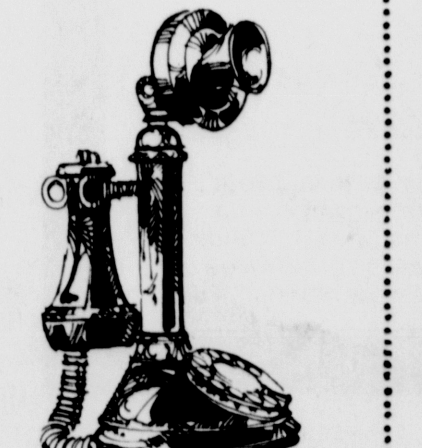

GTE GENERAL TELEPHONE

CHESTPHONE — a real man-type decorator phone for the living room, his special room, desk or table. Modern stylized instrument handsomely set in a black leather chest with walnut trim ... in carved walnut ... or even with a sardonyx stone hunting scene inset on the lid!

CANDLESTICK PHONE ... the new-fashion old-fashioned phone styled right out of the roaring twenties in Black Bottom Black, Whiffenpoof White and Razzmatazz Red. Except that we did away with the separate big old bell box.

CRADLEPHONES ... General Telephone's very last word in sophisticated styling — Mediterranean, Grecian Cameo, Brocade, Antique White ... all resplendent with gold trim and fingerwheels. Conversation pieces right out of another world.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

What 'Counseling' Is Hubby Giving?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 34 years old, and I am 35. We've been married for 12 years. I am a school teacher, and he does some counseling. About six months ago he started to buy me some rather expensive presents. At the same time he himself came home with an expensive gold watch, some tailor-made suits, and finally a new expensive automobile.

I knew he couldn't afford all those things on what he made, so I had a long talk with him and he confessed that he has been getting large amounts of money from a woman. He described her as a high-priced call girl. He said he was helping her to work out her problems, that his interest in her was strictly professional and in appreciation for helping her get her head together she kept giving him large amounts of money.

He has been spending a lot of evenings away from home. Does this sound professional to you?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Not very. An ethical counselor usually charges a set fee, and doesn't accept "large amounts of money." It's all right for him to help her get her head together as long as he doesn't take too many things apart.

DEAR ABBY: A former neighbor phoned me yesterday and the first thing she asked me was: "How much did you get for your old house?" I told her. Then she asked me what we paid for our new house. I was so shocked at her nerve, I told her.

I mentioned we were trying to adopt some children from Korea or Vietnam. She said: "Can't you have any of your own?" I told her we felt the world should provide for the children that are here. Then she told me she thought we were out of our minds to "borrow trouble."

Abby, we lost a pair of twin boys when our home caught fire six months ago, and I told her we felt so guilty because we survived and they didn't. She said we were "ridiculous" to feel that way. I told her we had talked to our minister and a psychiatrist and they agreed our feelings of guilt were normal, and only time would erase them. She said all psychiatrists were crazy and ministers are stupid, and we could get over it if we wanted to.

Then she said: "Bill and I want to see your new house. If you don't want to make a dinner, have us over for cocktails soon, will you?"

I said: "Yes, I will." After I hung up I was angry with myself for letting this nifty woman maneuver me into promising to have her over. Should I just "forget" to invite her over? Or am I committed now?

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: Don't "forget" to invite her. Remember to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY: Forty years ago I fell in love with my first cousin. I was 17, and he was 19. Our parents (wisely?) broke it up.

I am 57 now, and he is 59 and both of us are free to marry. I'm recently widowed, and he's divorced. We would like to marry as we truly love each other. I am through menopause which means there will be no children.

Can first cousins marry in the state of Arizona, where I live? If not, how about Illinois, where he lives?

WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: A clergyman or lawyer in your state can quickly give you the yea or nay.

DEAR ABBY: To the correspondent who said wedding presents were out of style—that they just passed the tray and collected money instead.

Last summer we attended a wedding where the festive dinner was prepared by friends who were members of a gourmet cooking club. Their "gift" was preparing the dinner. Another friend donated his services by painting two rooms in the old house where the bride and groom were going to live.

Soliciting gifts of money would be considered bad form in our circles, and we are by no means, the idle rich. Imaginative gifts suitable to the circumstances rate tops.

Beverage Company

Undergoes Revamping

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Beverage Management Inc., a management services company, has been reorganized as an operating company by its board of directors, Henry M. O'Neill Jr., the company's president said today.

O'Neill said the board dissolved its Seven-up operations in Ohio, Southern Michigan and Western Pennsylvania and established them as divisions under the company. At the same time the board continued the Jackson Bottling Co., as a separate corporation.

Puppets Used To Teach Children

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — They used to say, "As the twig is bent, so grows the tree."

At the University of Akron one of the ways they bend the twig in the nursery school is by letting the pre-school kids play with interracial hand puppets with peelable, changeable faces.

"Puppets may be a way of getting people to deal with feelings that they are unwilling or unable to express directly or openly," said Mrs. Mary Ellen Atwood, director of the nursery school.

What Mrs. Atwood, and her assistant, Mrs. Jean Williams, are trying to do is "to help preschoolers see themselves as worthy, trusting, responsive, competent and creative persons."

"The preschooler," said Mrs. Atwood, "is at an age where he is learning about himself— his sex, race, family, capabilities, cultural and possible vocational role."

Mrs. Williams explained that by using the hand puppets in various situations pre-schoolers "learn that he can control his own behavior."

The puppets are part of a kit developed for a department store chain. Among kit items are cardboard people and commodities which may be positioned on a flannel board. Use of the flannel board material, said Mrs. Williams, gives a child a better insight into his own identity.

"This was not something just dreamed up overnight," said Mrs. Atwood. "It's something we've worked with for four years, and developed these philosophies."

To get away from old racial stereotypes, the background color of the box holding the kit is Lincoln green, and the face of a child of no particular racial heritage is outlined in purple.

Oil Pipeline Ban Stands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a lower court decision blocking construction of the controversial trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

The high court refused without comment or dissent an urgent government plea to overturn the lower court. Thus, the justices left the future of the pipeline from Alaska's North Slope up to Congress.

The government, the State of Alaska, and a consortium of oil companies had urged the court to overturn a decision issued in February by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

The circuit court said the government could not issue permits for construction of the pipeline on U.S.-owned land because the right-of-way needed exceeds the 54-foot width allowed by the federal Mineral Leasing Act of 1920.

Historic Ross County Land Sold

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Three Virginia land developers have purchased property in Ohio once owned by the surveyors of the Northwest Territory, a real estate man said here today.

The 979-acre North Fork Farm, on U.S. 50 west of here, was sold by Dr. George Schneider to A. B. Jewell, Tazewell; Randell L. Jewell, Richlands, and Robert J. Yates, Grundy.

No sale price was announced by Don Kear, who handled the transaction.

Ross County records show that property once was owned by Nathiel Massie, surveyor of the Northwest Territory and founder of the town of Chillicothe, the first capital of Ohio. Part of the 1,580-acres of the farm was patented to him and surveyed March 4, 1799. Later, Ohio Gov. Thomas Worthington acquired the land from Massie and his heirs.

Top Names Join John Ford Tribute

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — President and Mrs. Nixon, Jon Wayne, Danny Kaye, Maureen O'Hara, James Stewart and Jack Lemmon — quite a guest list!

All of them gathered Saturday night to honor John Ford, 78-year-old filmmaker who was paid tribute by the American Film Institute.

Nixon, who said "I've seen virtually all of the 140 Ford movies," gave the ailing director the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor.

Boys And Girls In Service

Air National Guard (ANG) Airman Scott C. Wilson, brother of Nathan W. Wilson, Route 2, has graduated at Chanute AFB, Ill., from the U.S. Air Force fuel specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

Airman Wilson, now trained to receive, store and issue petroleum products, is returning to his Ohio ANG unit at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

A 1967 graduate of Logan Elm High School, the airman received his B.S. degree in 1972 at Ohio State University.

Three area men, Richard Woltz, Thomas Tatman, Jr., and John Timmons, Jr., have enlisted in the United States Navy.

Thomas E. Tatman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Tatman, 405 N. Pickaway St., Circleville, enlisted March 16.

He joined the Navy under the Occupational Sepciality School Guarantee Program, which guarantees him a school in the field of his choice prior to his enlistment.

After seven weeks of recruit training, he will receive orders for further training as a Medical Corpsman.

THOMAS TATMAN

John W. Timmons Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Timmons of Route 2, Ashville, enlisted in the U.S. Navy March 1.

JOHN TIMMONS

He joined the Navy under the Occupational Specialty School Guarantee Program, which guarantees him a school in the field of his choice prior to enlistment.

After seven weeks of recruit training, he will receive orders for further training as a Medical Corpsman.

Stephen M. Swank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle E. Swank of Route 5, Circleville, has been promoted to sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

Sergeant Swank is a real estate cost management analysis specialist at Loring AFB, Maine. He is a member of the Strategic Air Command, America's nuclear deterrent force of long range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The sergeant, a 1969 graduate of Logan Elm High School, attended Mount Vernon (Ohio) Nazarene College and Columbus (Ohio) Technical Institute.

His wife, Diane, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmur Rhodes of 708 Clinton St., Circleville.

Airman Ronald D. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Cox of Route 4, Circleville, Ohio, has been assigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

RONALD COX

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Keesler for specialized training in the armament systems field.

Airman Cox is a 1972 graduate of Logan Elm High School. His wife, Beverly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zwicker of 138 Rosewood Ave., Circleville.

Richard H. Woltz, son of Paul E. Woltz of 130 E. High St., Circleville, enlisted under the 180-day delay "CACHE" Program.

RICHARD WOLTZ

The program allowed him to enlist now and build up seniority, but not report for active duty for up to 180 days. His tentative plans call for him to go on active duty in September.

Woltz is presently a senior at Circleville High School and will graduate in May.

Pvt. Dan Zickafoose recently spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Haddox, Route 1, Stoutsville, and other relatives in the area. His wife, the former, Jackie Crosby, has joined him at his new duty station.

The new address of Pvt. Zickafoose, who has completed his basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., is 290-50-5555 Co. D USASASB 2nd Bn, Box 1175, Fort Dizens, Mass. 01433.

Chief Master Sergeant James M. Palm, son of Mrs. Frances Riggan of 470 E. Franklin St., Circleville, recently completed the first comptrollership course for Air National Guard (ANG) personnel.

The two-week course taught by the Department of Comptroller Training of the U.S. Air Force's School of Applied Aerospace Sciences at Sheppard AFB, Tex., is designed to better equip the ANG to move from financial management systems used by the Guard to standard Air Force systems.

Classes cover all aspects of comptrollership, including accounting and finance, budget, audit, management analysis and computer technology.

Sergeant Palm is assigned as an accounting superintendent with Headquarters, Ohio ANG in Washington, D. C.

A 1955 graduate of Circleville High School, the sergeant attended Capital University, Columbus. His wife, Juliann, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Smith, who reside on Lynwood Avenue, Circleville.

Larry Emmelhainz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Emmelhainz of 7840 Alkire Road, Galloway, O. has been recognized as an outstanding U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadet at Ohio State University.

Cadet Emmelhainz is a 1968 graduate of Pleasant View High School, Grove City, where he was a member of the National Honor Society.

His wife, Dayna, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Chapman Jr., 5520 London-Groveport Road, Orient.

Airman Bradford G. Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Clarke, 140 Lewis Ave., Circleville, has graduated at Brooks AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force aeromedical specialist course conducted by the School of Aerospace Medicine.

Airman Clarke, who was trained to assist in medical care of flying personnel, is being assigned to the USAF Regional Hospital at Eglin AFB, Fla., for duty.

The airman, a 1967 graduate of Pius X Central High School, Lincoln, Neb., received an A.A. degree in 1971 from Tallahassee, (Fla.) Community College and is a member of Delta Upsilon.

U.S. Air Force First Lieutenant David W. Gearhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Gearhart of Route 2, Kingston, has arrived for duty at Ubon Royal Thai AFB, Thailand.

Lieutenant Gearhart, a weapons systems officer, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces (PACAF) which provides tactical air power supporting the U.S. and its allies in Southeast Asia and the Far East. He previously served at MacDill AFB, Fla.

The lieutenant, a 1967 graduate of Union-Scioto High School, Chillicothe, received his B.S. degree in 1971 from Ohio State University and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Interrogation, Torture Disclosed By Returned POW

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Air Force Maj. Cowan Glenn Nix of suburban Pepper Pike says he was interrogated and tortured during his 6½ years as a prisoner-of-war in North Vietnam.

Nix, 35, was released last month. In an interview with the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Nix said he was speaking out to counteract testimony of Americans who visited North Vietnam and claim the prisoners were treated fairly and humanely.

"They (the North Vietnamese) wanted my family history and military information," said Nix. "I tried to say nothing, but as time went on, it became apparent that giving some answer was better than refusing to answer at all."

Nix said that when he failed to answer questions in the early weeks of his captivity, his hands were tied palm-to-palm behind his back and that his elbows were then pulled together and tied.

Nix told the Plain Dealer he was forced to kneel for hours — once for 1½ days — and that his feet and hands often were tied together behind his back.

Nix said that after the initial interrogation, the torture ended except for "five or six heavy affairs" which were punishments, he said, for "imaginary offenses" such as rudeness to a guard.

Nix said he was shot down while he and three other pilots were attacking a ferry boat. He jumped from the plane and was captured in a stream about 100 feet away.

Nix said his captors found out his position because a packet of green dye in his survival vest had split open and stained the water.

Nix said he stayed in three prisons and formed friendships "that were of unusual strength."

"Words cannot express what I feel about these men," he said.

Man Slain In Ireland; Toll Now 756

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorist gunmen killed one man during the night in Northern Ireland and devastated the heart of a country town with a bomb.

A man about 25 was shot in the head at close range, and his body was left in a ditch near Portavogie, a fishing village in County Down. It was the 756th confirmed death in the nearly four years of communal warfare.

About 100 pounds of gelignite exploded in the town of Dungiven, causing widespread damage on the main street and wounding three girls with shards of flying glass.

Police said a few minutes before the blast a caller claiming to be a member of the extremist Protestant Red Hand warned of the bomb, which was planted outside a tavern owned by a Roman Catholic in the preponderantly Catholic town.

In the Irish Republic, intelligence agents were investigating reports that 95 tons of arms and explosives for the Irish Republican Army were unloaded last week from the small freighter Claudia before the Irish Navy captured her off the southeast coast.

One of the ship's West German owners was quoted as saying Monday that the ship should have been carrying 100 tons of weapons for the IRA. The Irish government said it found only five tons.

Senate Nixes Control Bill; House Active

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional effort to take the direction of economic controls away from President Nixon and decree a freeze on prices, rents and interest is approaching a House test, following Senate rejection of a similar proposal.

The House Banking Committee, with exactly half its membership sponsoring such legislation, scheduled an executive meeting today at which the measure may come to a vote, although this was not certain.

Both proponents and opponents of the mandatory legislation said that some version of it is likely to be approved by the committee. Passage by the House, however, was considered more problematical.

The Senate Monday by a 39-37 vote, rejected an amendment that would have frozen at current levels prices, wages, rents and interest rates for 60 days.

The proposal was offered as an amendment to a bill raising from 50 to 60 per cent the federal share of costs of state meat and poultry inspection programs. That bill was passed and sent to the House.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, an author of the amendment, called Nixon's program piecemeal. "If we don't do this, we're inviting a recession as sure as God made little green apples," he said.

The Senate also rejected attempts to freeze prices of farm products at the Jan. 2 levels; to freeze them at current levels, and to limit meat exports while the ceiling on prices of beef, pork and lamb are in effect.

Woman Killed

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Elizabeth Quick, 56, of Archbold, was killed shortly before midnight Monday when the car in which she was riding struck a truck parked at the edge of Ohio 66 in Henry County.

The weathered Cathedral of St. Michael, completed in 1848 in Sitka, Alaska, remained in use until destroyed by fire in 1966.

Stray Bullet Caused Blast

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — One of six shots, described as a "fluke," tore through a tavern floor into a gas meter Saturday night causing a leak that ended in an explosion and death for seven persons.

Fire Chief Bert Lugannani said Monday evening that the recovered gas meter contained a .32 caliber bullet believed fired by bartender John W. Johnson. Johnson was killed.

Police and fire department arson investigators are looking for a man who tried, unsuccessfully, to sell a pistol to Johnson. The man and the pistol are missing.

Cab driver Willie McMullen told investigators of the incident following the blast that leveled Clara and Al's Cafe, the Truth Vine Tabernacle store front church, apartments above the church and cafe and a building in the rear.

"It was a fluke shot," said Asst. Chief Robert Schinaman, chief arson investigator. "The bullet had to travel 25 feet and ricochet to get into the meter in the basement. We know it was a ricochet because of the hole it made."

A .32 caliber bullet was recovered from the meter.

He explained that the gas leaking from the meter exploded about 20 minutes later, probably triggered by a water heater pilot light.

"The cab driver—McMullen—said he was at the bar when he heard Johnson say he never bought a gun without trying it out first," said Schinaman. "So they turned up the juke box and Johnson fired off six shots."

"Then he said he didn't want the gun and McMullen said he wanted it. He asked the man, who was trying to sell the revolver, to wait while he went for the money.

"McMullen said the building blew up as he was coming back up the street with the money."

Five of the dead were involved in a card game in the rear room of the cafe, Schinaman said.

Mrs. Mary Goode, who lived in a rear apartment behind the cafe, said she smelled the gas and telephoned the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. to report it.

"I just finished and had the phone in my hand when it hit," she recalled. Her husband, Jesse, who stepped into the cafe kitchen, was killed when a refrigerator landed on him.

Pearl Martin, 72, an invalid who lived upstairs was also killed.

Area NFO Members Vote To Continue 'Orderly' Selling

Twenty four farmers and wives from Pickaway County were among the 1,000 farmers attending a meeting at the Ohio State Fairgrounds, Columbus, Friday.

At this meeting National Farmer Organization members voted to resume selling livestock in an orderly manner. Hogs and cattle will be scheduled as usual with area NFO collection point and then moved to the packers as long as present live animal prices are maintained, it was reported by Joseph A. Carle, representative of the Williamsport NFO collection point.

Those attending the meeting also voted to give the NFO national directors and the home office personnel the right to call a withholding action of livestock if present prices drop.

An area meeting was held at Bloom-Carroll High School Monday.

We're planning for a brighter tomorrow. Don't waste gas today.

Columbia Gas is striving to assure that clean-burning natural gas will be available for home, business and industry for years to come. We're reaching out for vast new sources of supply—from Alaska, from under the sea and overseas, from deep under the green hills of Appalachia . . . even from coal. Achieving these goals is still dependent upon government cooperation. Our plans for the future are sound. But, right now, natural gas is in short supply. More clean-burning gas is needed to sustain our community's economic and environmental well-being. There are several things you can do right in your own home to help ease the shortage of valuable natural gas. Easy things. Like turning your thermostat down to a comfortable temperature and not changing it. Have a heating dealer check your furnace to make sure it is operating efficiently. Keep your furnace filters clean. Even on the coldest winter day, the sun will help heat your home. Open the drapes and let the sun shine in. At night, or on cloudy days, it's smart to close your drapes to help keep the warm in. Write to Columbia Gas for a free booklet, "30 Ways to Save." Observe these suggestions and you'll use less gas. Help make tomorrow brighter.

Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

Chi Chi Wins Greensboro, Nicklaus Favored In Masters

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Little Chi Chi Rodriguez has no illusions about extending his winning streak to two with a victory in the famed Masters this weekend.

"Jack Nicklaus will be there," Chi Chi explained.

"When Jack takes a week off (as he did in the Greater Greensboro Open), it's anybody's tournament," Rodriguez said Monday after his one-stroke victory over Lou Graham and Ken Still.

"But Augusta National (the site of the Masters) was made for Jack Nicklaus and Jack Nicklaus was made for Augusta National."

The 37-year-old Rodriguez, down to a wiry 120 pounds because of a diet he "hopes will help me live to be 140 years old," came from two strokes off the pace with a five-under-par 66 in the rain-delayed final and picked up $42,000 for his seventh tour triumph in 14 years on the pro tour.

He had a 72 hole total of 267, 17 under par on the squishy, water-logged 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course. Graham, who had a final 69, was one stroke away for the third week in a row. He tied at 268 with Ken Still, who bolted into contention with a last-round 64 that included 11 one-putt greens.

Rodriguez and the rest of the field that is eligible for the Masters were delayed one day in getting to Augusta, Ga.— where Nicklaus has been practicing for a week—by the rains that plagued the tournament, caused two postponements and left the course a soggy, gooey quagmire.

Rodriguez started the final round two strokes back of coleaders Graham and Billy Casper. Casper and Graham both encountered trouble on the front nine, despite rules that allowed all players to lift, clean and place the ball in the fairway and through the green, and Chi Chi stormed past them on a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the seventh hole.

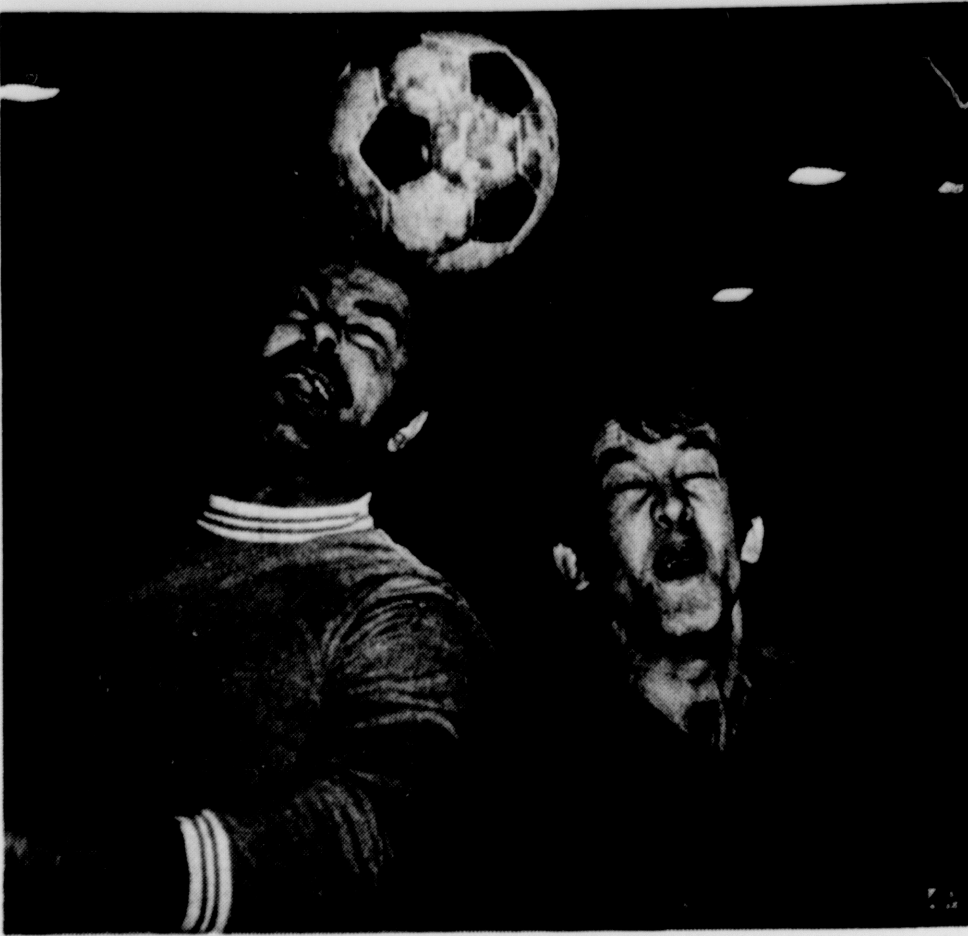

Behind Graham and Still came Casper and veteran Gay Brewer, tied at 270. Brewer, who has played extremely well this year and is a strong contender at Augusta, closed with a seven-under-par 64. Casper matched par 71.

Greensboro Coliseum Gets '74 Ticket Bids

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Greensboro Coliseum, which will host the 1974 National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball finals, received more than 20,000 pieces of mail for ticket orders Monday. The first day's mail—orders could not be accepted before April 1—assured a sellout of the Coliseum's 15,400 seats.

The Coliseum will hold a drawing to select approximately 2,200 orders which can be filled for 8,800 public seats. The remaining seats go to the four participating schools, the Basketball Coaches Association and the NCAA.

Westfall Rally Nips Vikings

Westfall tallied two runs in the bottom of the seventh to down Teays Valley, 6-5, in a nip and tuck affair Monday on the Mustangs' diamond.

Mike Peterson and Rick Kennedy handled the mound duties for the Mustangs. Peterson went the first four innings, allowing seven hits and two walks while fanning three. Kennedy hurled the last three frames, giving up three hits, one walk and striking out three Vikings.

Jerry Sabine went all the way for Teays Valley. The sturdy righthander allowed nine hits, six walks and struckout six Mustangs.

Westfall jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning. Teays Valley got a run back in the top of the second but the Mustangs bounced back with a single tally in the bottom of the frame to make it 4-1.

The Vikings plated two markers in the top of the third, knotted the count at 4-4 with a run in the fourth and took a 5-4 lead with a single score in the top of the fifth.

It was still 5-4 in favor of the Vikings when the Mustangs came to bat for the final time in the bottom of the seventh.

With one out, Rick Kennedy slashed a single to keep the Westfall hopes alive. Kennedy was out at second on fielders choice by Artie Dick. Gary Thompson followed with a walk and when Jim Dawson rapped a one-bagger Dick raced home to tie the game at 5-5. Thompson went to third on the hit and promptly stole home to give the Mustangs the win.

Greg McKay, Dawson and Larry Adams had two singles apiece to lead the Mustang attack while Tim Brigner, Craig Moore and Kennedy each had a one-bagger.

Haines paced Teays Valley with a triple and two singles. Chaffin had a three-bagger and single, Williams rapped a double and single while Glitt, Pabst and Southers each had a single.

Westfall is now 2-0 for the season and will be at Washington C.H. 4:15 p.m. today.

Rose Opens 2nd Decade In Cincy

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The years have sneaked up on Pete Rose. Almost without realizing it, he is about to begin his second decade as a Cincinnati Red.

Thursday afternoon in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium the 31-year-old Rose will be in left field as the Reds meet the San Francisco Giants in the 1973 season opener.

"It sneaks up on you. I didn't realize it until the other day, but this is my 13th spring training as a professional," Rose said.

Despite the passing of time, Rose has lost none of his enthusiasm for the game. He remains brash as brash as in 1963 when he scrapped his way into a job with the Reds and went on to win rookie of the year honors.

There have been accomplishments along the way.

There are the 1,922 hits he's collected, an all-time Cincinnati record, and two National League batting championships.

There are eight 300-plus seasons in a row, and five 200-hit seasons.

"Although this is my 11th (big league) season, two of the last three have been the most enjoyable," Rose said, referring to the pennant-winning years of 1970 and 1972.

Winning is the major goal for Rose, but is barely ahead of hitting on his list of priorities.

"I love to hit; It's such a challenge," said Rose, owner of a .309 lifetime average.

"Realistically, it's probably the hardest thing there is in all sports. You've got a round ball, a round bat and the object is to hit it square."

The challenge, Rose said is what makes him spend extra hours in the batting cage.

"Baseball is an individual game," he explains. "You go up to the plate and no one can help you. There's no one blocking the view or setting a pick."

"It's you against the pitcher," he said, "that's what it's all about."

Rose is determined to make 1973 a super season. His enthusiasm is at its greatest. His confidence, he said, is strong.

"I'm a believer that the only way I can't hit .300 is if there's something physically wrong with me," said the Cincinnati captain.

Utah Stars Trip San Diego Cagers

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars' Coach LaDell Andersen feels Monday night's first-round American Basketball Association victory over San Diego was more than a playoff triumph.

The 107-93 conquest was a confirmation of his long-held theory that a fast-breaking team is a winning team.

"Our win was just a case of a fast break and a good defense," the Stars' coach said following his team's first post-season game. "It's a ball-control game."

Veteran Zelmo Beaty did his share of controlling. The agile center pumped in 25 points and pulled down 14 rebounds, all on two of the weakest knees in pro basketball.

Teammate Ron Boone, a reserve guard through most of the season, hit 27 points for the game's scoring honors. Jimmy Jones added 19 for the Western Division champions.

Stew Johnson led the Conquistadors with 22 points and Chuck Williams had 20. Red Robbins dropped in 18 for San Diego.

The two teams play here again Wednesday night and then move to San Diego for games three and four on Saturday and Sunday.

The other ABA first-round playoffs swing back into action tonight. In the East Division, the Carolina Cougars face the Nets in New York and the Kentucky Colonels visit the Virginia Squires in Norfolk. In the West's other battle, the Denver Rockets host the defending ABA champion Indiana Pacers.

The National Basketball Association playoffs don't resume until Wednesday night when, in Eastern Conference play, the New York Knicks take their 2-0 lead into Baltimore against the Bullets and the Boston Celtics try to make it two in a row against the Hawks in Atlanta. In the Western Conference, the Milwaukee Bucks and Golden State Warriors, tied 1-1, play game No. 3 Thursday night in Oakland and, on Friday, the Los Angeles Lakers try to increase their 2-0 lead over the Bulls in Chicago.

Sanguillen In Field

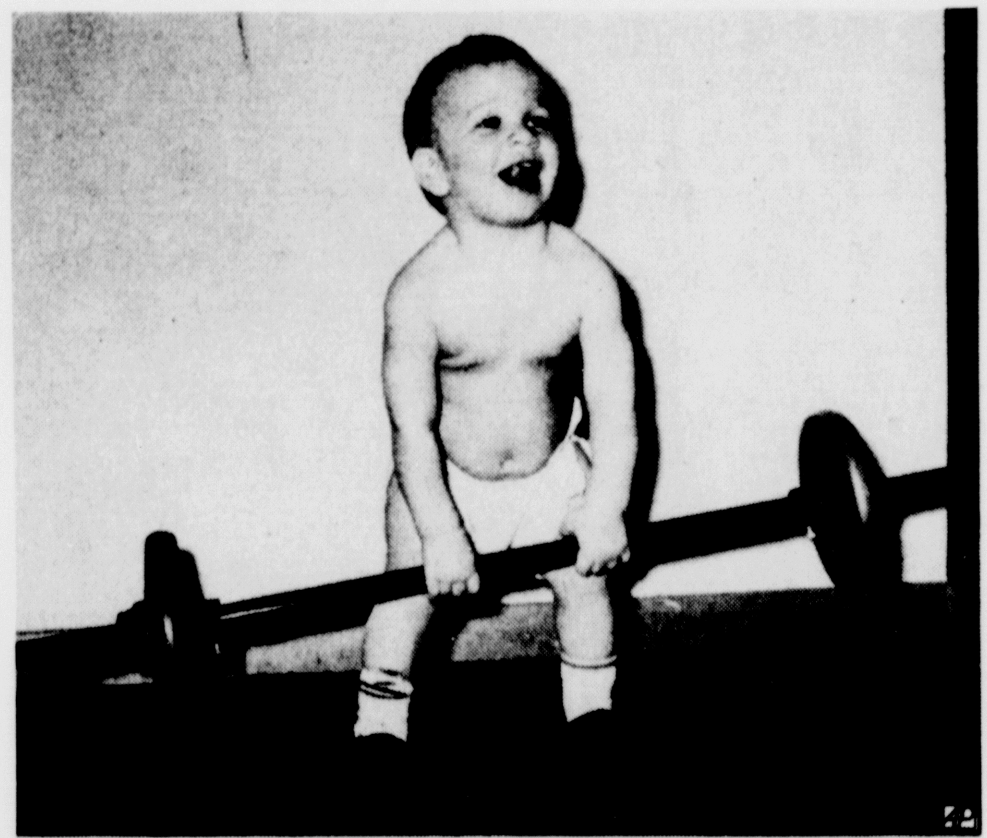

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Phase II of the Sanguillen Experiment begins Friday when the Pittsburgh Pirates open their regular season.

Manager Bill Virdon announced Monday that Sanguillen has passed the spring training test and will be in right field when the Pirates meet the St. Louis Cardinals.

The former catcher will fill the vacancy created when his close friend, Roberto Clement, died New Year's Eve in a plane crash off the coast of his native Puerto Rico.

Sanguillen also is expected to catch a few games to relieve the new Pirate No. 1 catcher, Milt May. The 22-year-old May has been Sanguillen's backup since he was voted the outstanding prospect in the International League in 1970 after hitting 21 home runs for the Pirates' Columbus farm club.

Royals Top Cards

Kansas City's Hal McRae tried to send the ball careening into the stands whenever he stepped up to the plate. Unfortunately, his lusty swings were missing the target. Then he shortened his swing.

"I hit a couple of balls deep earlier in the spring and I got carried away," McRae recalled. "I guess I lost my head for a while."

McRae was advised to work on regaining his short stroke and he found it in time to wallop three doubles and a single, driving in three runs Monday as the Royals registered a 7-2 exhibition baseball victory Monday over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other games Monday, Montreal whipped Boston 5-1, the Chicago White Sox defeated Texas 8-4, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 6-4, Oakland battered California 8-3, the Chicago Cubs clobbered Cleveland 15-2 and San Diego upended Milwaukee 5-3.

Elsewhere, Baltimore beat Atlanta 7-3, the New York Mets blanked the New York Yankees 5-0, Detroit triumphed over Cincinnati 4-1, Minnesota beat Houston 3-0 and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 3-2.

The Cubs smothered the Indians under a 22-hit onslaught but may have lost third baseman Ron Santo who was struck in the wrist by a pitch. Santo was taken to a hospital for X-rays but the results were not immediately known.

Detroit right-hander Joe Coleman and southpaw John Hiller combined for a three hitter and Al Kaline and Bill Freehan provided the Tigers' offensive punch with two hits each.

Dave Hilton lashed a two-run homer in the first inning that started the Padres en route to victory.

The Orioles scored three runs in the third inning off Gary Gentry, ending the Atlanta's hurler's 19-inning scoreless streak.

Jon Hart hit a two-out single in the bottom of the ninth as the Giants nipped the Dodgers behind pitcher Tom Bradley, who went the distance for Los Angeles.

Joe Decker led a trio of Minnesota pitchers who limited Houston to three singles as the Twins scored in the first on Gary Terrell's double, an error and sacrifice by Dan Monzon and added runs in the seventh and ninth innings.

Dal Maxvill spearheaded an 11-hit Oakland barrage by hitting three consecutive singles and driving in two runs.

John Jeter drove in four runs for the White Sox with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Super Bowl Site Occupies NFL Officials

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Selection of a site for Super Bowl IX occupied the National Football League club officials today, one day after the group decided to begin steps to expand the 26-member league.

New Orleans, Miami and Los Angeles were scheduled to make a pitch for the 1975 postseason spectacular between the two conference champions. Insiders indicated New Orleans, with a new stadium to open in 1974, had a slight edge in the selection.

Birmingham, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla., were scheduled to make presentations for the 1975 Pro Bowl contest. But league officials said a decision on the site was not expected before Wednesday.

Pete Rozelle, league commissioner, who earlier Monday said expansion was being played down, announced later in the day he was forming a four-member committee to proceed "with deliberate speed."

Rozelle, establishing no specific timetable, said owners of the 26 clubs "generally were pro-expansion in a very healthy discussion."

He said the committee, to be named before the week-long meetings are completed, would develop criteria for a market research group and report to club owners at their meeting in New York in June.

AAU Agrees On Tourney

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's chances against the Soviet Union's basketball team zoomed Monday when the National Collegiate Athletic Association, under prodding by a House subcommittee, agreed to open the way for college players to participate.

The move means the U.S. team could obtain the services of all-America center Bill Walton and other top-notch underclassmen.

Walton's participation, however, still hinges on several factors, including a decision by the UCLA junior to play.

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, told the special House education subcommittee his organization would sanction the eight-game tour if the sponsors of the game, the Amateur Athletic Union, would apply for certification and the application meets all of the NCAA criteria.

An AAU spokesman, who was observing the hearing, immediately obtained an application. Byers said copies of the application would be distributed to the NCAA sanction committee and could be acted upon by Friday or Saturday.

Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore., urged the NCAA to act with speed so that underclassmen, now barred from playing against the Russians, will be able to be selected.

Without NCAA certification, the U.S. team would be composed primarily of college seniors. Already selected for the squad are Steve Downing of Indiana; Ernie DiGregorio, Providence; Mike Edwards, Tennessee; and Doug Collins, Illinois State.

Richardson Bares Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson says the present Cambodian government would have trouble surviving without U.S. bombing support unless the Communists agree to a ceasefire.

The fall of Cambodia could threaten the security of the Thieu government in South Vietnam, Richardson said Sunday.

The secretary said U.S. bombing raids over Cambodia are justified because the U.S. aim "is to support a government with which we have been fighting, in a continuing effort to bring the fighting to an end."

As to the ability of the Lon Nol government in Cambodia to survive without American air support, Richardson said:

"I think it would be very difficult in present circumstances. They are facing a massive threat by well-armed, well-organized guerrilla forces, which include forces from North Vietnam itself. This is a situation which could be brought to an end if Hanoi observed in full the ceasefire agreements as they apply to the whole of Indochina."

"They could help bring this about simply by shutting off supplies and withdrawing their own forces from South Vietnam." The collapse of Lon Nol's government, Richardson said, could open up to the Communists routes for resupplying forces in South Vietnam and allow "the untrammelled use of Cambodia as a staging area for attacks against South Vietnam."

The continued bombing of Cambodia is aimed at bringing "about the earliest possible compliance with the ceasefire," Richardson said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Judge Cautions Hospital Officials

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John Corrigan has advised officials at Metropolitan General Hospital that a doctor performing an abortion runs the risk of being charged with homicide if the aborted fetus should be born alive.

Corrigan said in the opinion Monday the Ohio Revised Code provides that any person who discovers a dead body or acquires knowledge of the death of a person by violent means shall notify the coroner.

He cited a recent Ohio Supreme Court ruling which he said talks of a "person" as one who had been "born alive."

An abortion would be regarded as violent means, said Corrigan, and thus if the fetus were born alive it should be reported to the coroner.

Ohio Lawsuit Appeal Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today rebuffed environmentalists in their bid to gain judicial reversal of a marshland swap between the Department of Interior and two utility companies.

The Sierra Club and Citizens for Clean Air and Water appealed a lower court ruling last year that the swap approved by the department was beyond the scope of judicial review.

The dispute involves two areas near Lake Erie in Ohio, the Navarre Marsh and the Darby Marsh.

The Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife in 1968 agreed to exchange the Navarre Marsh land for Darby Marsh, which was owned by the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., and the Toledo Edison Co.

The electric companies planned to build a nuclear power plant on dry portions of Navarre Marsh.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Unless very careful, you could become involved in an argument that would only leave scars. Avoid any discussions about money or material matters. Carefully study your expenses and assets, and devise a more suitable budget plan.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you plan your time wisely you are able to handle monetary affairs to your satisfaction. Forget a social matter if it's too expensive. Show that you have your feet squarely on the ground.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It would not be wise to find fault with a higher-up because you don't agree on a subject, so keep mum. Don't take any chances concerning a civic matter. Home is your best bet tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have some confidential matters to attend to and should do just that instead of going off on a tangent. Make intelligent plans for the future. Study plans most carefully. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a better way for taking care of promises you have made. Try not to quarrel with an associate or you could find trouble. Call a friend tonight who can be helpful to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more pride in your work. Carry through with what higher-ups expect of you and gain their goodwill. Several duties are not to your liking but they have to be performed. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new ways to get ahead in the future, and then everything works to your advantage. Newcomers you have met recently could get you in trouble, so avoid. Concern yourself with old friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) With bills to pay and other duties to perform, an early start on getting them behind you is wise. Don't pry into the affairs of others and you get along better. Strive for good health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Tell associates what you desire of them in a quiet and positive way, and gain their cooperation. Don't argue for best results. Moot points can be studied carefully before taking action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give co-workers the benefit of any doubt and get along better with them. Try to understand their viewpoints better. The evening is particularly good for the social side of life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to have entertainment that you enjoy provided you don't spend too much money. Try to express special talents, but don't force them. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to lose your temper at home and you avoid unfortunate circumstances. Eliminate whatever is causing friction. Don't forget to pay important bills. Take health treatment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be particularly careful in travel and you can avoid accidents. Cut down on expenses instead of adding to them. You have to be more efficient in handling routines. Don't waste time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who will be aggressive and will require discipline early if the life is to be successful. Teach to think before talking or acting. A new type of individual here who will like to do the practical part of any new ventures. Give fine religious training. Sports can be missed. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — This has been a good year in television for pop music, what with the start of NBC's "Midnight Special" and ABC's "In Concert" series last February. The year may get even better, because another pop music show is waiting in the wings.

It's called "Flipside," a halfhour effort that as of April 14 will start appearing in the late afternoons on Saturday and Sunday in nearly 100 cities across the nation.

The show is syndicated, which means it won't be on any network. You'll have to check your local newspaper listings to learn on what station it's appearing and which artists are on the bill. But it may be worth the search, particularly if you have a budding musician or singer in the family, because "Flipside" is being taped in recording studios during actual record sessions.

It promises to be a close-up look at the complex, difficult process of recording songs, a process many kids never think about when setting out to become the next James Taylor or Carly Simon.

The program will feature such top recording artists as Roberta Flack, Dr. Hook and the Medicine Show, Seals & Croft, Tom T. Hall and Blood, Sweat & Tears.

The hosts and interviewers on each show will be executives of the record companies for whom these artists perform; they'll chat with the performers and hopefully give the public some insight into the business. Thirteen shows are planned, with seven already taped.

"The concept of the show is that the behind-the-scenes of the music business is a very interesting thing that's seldom revealed to the audience," says Howard Marks, coproducer of "Flipside."

"And the interest in popular music is such that the audience really would like to know more about these people and see them in an informal setting and hear what they think," he said.

"We're really trying to do with the music heroes what television does with the sports heroes — introduce them to the audience."

He said the shows are being taped at recording sessions because "it's an atmosphere in which the performers feel comfortable, relaxed and at home — an atmosphere in which they normally do a great deal of their work."

Did the ratings success of "Midnight Special" and "In Concert" prompt the creation of "Flipside?"

"No, it was sponsored last December, before any of those shows were on the air," Marks said. "I think a more accurate reason is that there's suddenly been a tremendous popular interest in rock music and an increasing interest by advertisers in reaching the youth market."

"Which today, is from 10 to 55, I guess," he said.

Program Cutbacks Discussed For LE If Levy Fails In May

Logan Elm's school board, meeting Monday, continued its regular session to April 24, but not before long discussion about action to take if the 4 mill tax levy fails in May.

Plan Shuffle Of Amtrak Rail Fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak, the National Railroad Passenger Corp., said Monday it will raise some Western and Midwest fares 10 or 12 per cent and reduce some fares in other areas as much as 19 per cent April 29.

Western fares, which historically have been lower than for other parts of the nation, will increase up to 10 per cent, for both coach and first class, on routes between Chicago and Denver, and between Seattle and Los Angeles, Amtrak said.

Long distance round trip fares in first class and coach class, between the Midwest and the west coast, will be increased 6 to 12 per cent.

The Panama Limited, between Chicago and New Orleans, will offer a 19 per cent reduction in coach fare.

Reduced fares for groups of 15 or more, for round trips, will be offered throughout the country. Previously these discounts varied widely, and on many of the railroads now in the Amtrak system they were not even available.

Amtrak said that starting April 29 family fares will apply only on trips starting on Mondays through Thursdays. The purpose of the change is to encourage midweek travel and ease the generally heavier travel on weekends in many sectors.

One way fares between the middle west and California will remain unchanged.

Ohio Youth Succumbs To Accident Injuries

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — An Ohio youth and a Polk County man were killed Tuesday when the truck they were in hit a pillar of the Stockton overpass bridge on Interstate 80 west of Davenport.

The victims were Tom Wilcox, 17, of Findlay, Ohio, a passenger, and Michael Martin, 24, of Grimes.

One of the first actions to be taken by the board is notification this month to some 59 teachers that their contracts will not be renewed. If this action is not taken, and the teachers do not turn down the contracts, state law provides they are automatically rehired. This announcement will also be made regarding supplemental contracts.

Superintendent John Henn noted that most of these teachers will be rehired for the next school year by May 9, after it is known whether the operating levy fails or passes.

The board reviewed with Henn some possible program curtailments to consider if the levy fails.

To reduce costs, the board may cut back the staff by not replacing teachers that are retiring or resigning and institute a strict 30 to 1 student-teacher ratio in the elementary schools, even if this would mean combining grades.

Other possible action would be an increase in student fees in shop, home ec., art and similar classes. Parents, rather than the board, would pay for each student's workbooks in elementary grades.

Many extra duties and supplemental pay would be eliminated and regular elementary school teachers would handle art and music programs for their classes.

The availability of driver education, which is currently held during school, after school and in the summer, would be diminished if the district were forced to make cutbacks to remain in operation. One other alternative for the board would be to continue the regular program until the school ran completely out of money, which would be in about a year, commented Henn.

With operating money tight, the board is considering elimination of the kindergarten program. No major repairs or improvements to buildings, or replacement of old equipment could be afforded.

According to Henn, even taking these cutbacks, the school would need approximately 3 additional mills to provide funds to operate at this standard.

An advance draw was requested from the Hocking County auditor to meet bills and the board permanently adopted the annual appropriation measure tentatively approved in January.

Basketball coaches Dave Little and Asa Bradbury and Athletic Director Paul Brown, took part of the meeting to review the past year's accomplishments with the board and explain some plans for next year.

A resignation was accepted from bus driver Paul Phillips.

Superintendent Henn reported that the master schedule is already completed for students enrolled in high school and McDowell School next year. The student registration showed that the ninth grade alone experienced an increase of 50 members.

Attending this meeting, in addition to coaches, were board president Donald Bower, and members Roger Hobbie, Charles Jones, Mrs. Virginia Wood and Mrs. Carolyn H. McCoy, and guest Dave Evans.

Social Workers Attend Workshop On Child Abuse

Ten social workers from Pickaway County recently completed a four-part workshop on how to prevent child abuse and neglect.

The training sessions involved social workers from all 88 counties in Ohio and are part of an all-out drive to curb Ohio's growing child abuse and neglect problems.

Attending from Pickaway County were: Martha Seirel, Jo Ellen Deal, Virginia Adkins, Sarah Baehr, Oscar Burchfield, Patricia Whited, Betsy Hamrick, Jackie Ullman, Larry Backer and Katherine Dum.

WAKE 'EM UP — William D. Barber, 28, Route 5, driver of the car pinned down by a South Central Power pole, told investigating Deputy Sheriff Lowell Ferguson that he fell asleep prior to the accident, 6 a.m. Tuesday on the Circleville-Groveport Rd. The car went left of center, continued 42 feet off the left side where it hit a fence and continued down the fence row 57 feet where it hit the power pole headon. Impact snapped the pole in two sections at its base. The top section became trapped in the fence and fell on top of the car before the vehicle had a chance to fall back to the road. Barber was treated at Berger Hospital for contusions and abrasions to his nose, left eye and chest, and a laceration of his right knee.

Yorty Faces Tough Fight For Election

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City Councilman Thomas Bradley, bidding to become the first black mayor of Los Angeles, was rated the clear frontrunner over incumbent Sam Yorty in today's primary election.

Yorty, 63, the self-styled "maverick mayor," is seeking an unprecedented fourth term. He waged a low-key campaign designed to put him into a runoff with Bradley May 29.

A candidate could win the non-partisan job outright today by collecting more than half the votes cast. But, with a list of 13 candidates on the mayor's ballot, that was considered a long shot.

City Clerk Rex Layton predicted that about 70 per cent, or more than 800,000 of the 1.2 million persons eligible to vote, would cast ballots.

Polling places were to be open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. EST.

Of the 13 candidates, three were considered major challengers to Yorty with a shot at getting into the runoff:

—Bradley, 55, a quiet-spoken 6-foot-4 former police officer who led the field in the primary four years ago but lost to Yorty in a bitter runoff campaign. He accused Yorty of using the race issue against him.

—Former state Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh, 50, once known as the "Big Daddy" of California politics for the toughfisted way he ran the Assembly.

—Former Police Chief Tom Reddin, 56, who left that job under Yorty for a short-lived career as a television news commentator.

Ex-State Official

James Miller Succumbs

BUCYRUS, Ohio (AP) — Former state liquor director James Miller died Monday in Bucyrus Community Hospital. He was 94.

Miller was Bucyrus city solicitor from 1923 to 1929 and was Crawford County probate judge from 1929 to 1935, when he resigned to become state liquor director under Governor Martin L. Davey. He held the post for four years.
